Self-Discipline Or Government Controls

Ike Declares U.S. Faces Choice To Avert Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the nation faces a grave choice—either self-discipline to prevent a damaging inflation, or government controls “which are alien to our traditional way of life.”

Eisenhower sent to Congress his economic report, third and last of the major annual messages. It announced a virtually full recovery from the recession, forecast record income and production in 1959, and held out hopes of tax reduction reasonably soon thereafter. It asked 31 laws to help “assure a vigorous growth of our economy.”

But the message clearly was meant as an alarm bell to rally labor, business and consumers to unite with the government in defending the value of the dollar.

Wage rises that run ahead of increases in output per worker, Eisenhower said, push up prices, hurt sales and impair American competition in world markets.

Thus excessive wage costs obstruct the creation of new jobs, endanger the jobs of those now working, and: “In short, they are, in the end, self-defeating.”

The President appealed to industry to redouble its efforts to hold the price line and “wage a ceaseless war against costs.” He urged consumers to shop carefully for price and quality.

He called on Congress, for the third time in a fortnight, to abide by the spending cuts in the 77-billion-dollar budget which he sent to the Capitol Monday for the year starting July 1.

This, he told the legislators, would be “the most important single step in discharging the government’s responsibility to help preserve the stability of prices and costs through the prudent management of its own affairs.”

If government income and spending can be matched in the year starting next July 1, and if tax collections are swelled by the expected growth of income and business profits, Eisenhower said, then—“A significant additional step in tax reduction and reform can be taken in the reasonably foreseeable future.”

More directly than in the past the President aimed his exhortation at unions entering wage negotiations. “Leaders of labor unions have a particularly critical role to play, in view of the great power lodged in their hands,” he asserted.

“Self-discipline and restraint are essential if reasonable stability of prices is to be reached within the framework of the free competitive institutions.

“If the desired results cannot be achieved under our arrangements for determining wages and prices, the alternatives are either inflation, which would damage our economy and work hardships on millions of Americans, or controls, which are alien to our traditional way of life and which would be an obstacle to the nation’s economic growth and improvement.”

House Group ‘Digs’ Into Ike’s Budget

Two Key Members Declare $77 Billion Can Be Cut Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee starts work on President Eisenhower’s 77-billion-dollar budget today with two key members saying it can be cut.

But the general tenor of comments among Democrats — who hold large majorities in both House and Senate—indicated that Congress is more likely to raise than to decrease the total.

Maurice Stans, director of the Budget Bureau, and Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson were called before the committee to explain details of Eisenhower’s spending plans for the year starting July 1.

Both Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) and Rep. John Taber of New York, senior committee Republican, said they believed the budget could be cut.

They never saw a budget that couldn’t be cut, they said in separate statements. But they didn’t say where or how much. The committee will work several months on those questions.

Following today’s meeting of the 50-member group, the committee will break up into subcommittees to start whipping into shape more than a dozen separate bills providing the money to finance the budget.

The first of the subcommittee, and the largest, already has directed Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy to provide later this week details of the military portion of the budget.

About 60 per cent of the projected spending is for defense, with emphasis on missiles and space exploration.

That might not be enough, commented Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex), head of the Defense subcommittee. Mahon said he feared the defense budget “may have been shaved too close.”

Cannon minced no words. He called the budget a political document based on “contingencies which no one expects to materialize.”

He referred to Eisenhower’s estimate that an expanding prosperity will add nine billion dollars to the revenue totals estimated for this year.

Numerous other Democrats contended with Cannon that the estimate was more optimistic than the economy now seems able to support.

Other officials, including administration experts, said the estimate is realistic—even conservative — in the light of booming corporation profits and a continuation of the business upswing.

3 Wellsville Men Arrested

Larceny Charged To Trio In Heifer Theft

Three Wellsville men are due hearings today at Lisbon on charges of grand larceny and breaking and entering stemming from theft of two heifers last month, and one is accused of threatening a Hammondsville man who is charged with selling the stolen beef.

John Reed, 28, 1900 Buckeye Ave., Ralph Wright, 29, of 2307 Buckeye Ave., and Richard Arnold, 27, of 604 Henry Ave., all of Wellsville, are slated for hearings this afternoon before County Judge James MacDonald.

Reed is also charged with assault in a menacing manner of Delva Cronin, of Hammondsville, who has been bound over to the April Grand Jury for receiving stolen property.

Cronin, who has been questioned by sheriff’s deputies, said Reed held a knife at his throat and warned him not to tell anything and ordered him to dispose of the meat.

The heifers were taken Dec. 28 from the farm of Robert Beverly of near Salineville. Sheriff Russell VanFossan said a key link in the case came with a report from an Irondale resident that Cronin sold him a 140-pound beef carcass Dec. 29.

Cronin is in the County Jail under $1,000 bond. Bonds for the other three were set at $2,500 each for larceny and $2,500 each for breaking and entering. Bond for Reed on the assault charge was set at $500.

The trio pleaded not guilty at a hearing to set bonds Monday before Judge MacDonald. They were taken into custody over the weekend.

Legislature’s Consent Needed Collection Of Tolls On Chester Bridge Eyed For Road Aid

City To Need $1 Million On Freeway

$2,500 Authorized For Survey To Find Traffic Potential

Temporary restoration of tolls on the Chester Bridge to raise the $1 million or more that will be required as the city’s entire share of a cross-town freeway was suggested to Council Monday night by Mayor Fred P. Lawrence.

The State Bridge Commission, the State Legislature and the State Highway Department would have to co-operate to make the move a reality, but it is virtually the only way the financially hard-pressed city can raise its share of the project’s cost, the mayor said.

Tolls were removed from the span in 1951, when the state paid off the last of about $2.5 million in bonds which it had issued to purchase the bridge from the late C. A. Smith. At that time, control and maintenance of the span passed from the State Bridge Commission to the State Highway Department.

Assenting to the mayor’s request to investigate the possibility of restoring tolls, Council informally authorized expenditure of $2,500 to hire crews from Michael Baker Jr., Inc., a consulting engineering firm at Rochester, to make a week-long “origin and destination” survey of all traffic using the bridge.

The engineering concern’s report, showing where each motorist starts his trip and where it will end, will be used to buttress possible city negotiations with the state for restoration of the tolls, the mayor said.

Council agreed to meet in adjourned session Wednesday night at 7 to enact legislation officially authorizing expenditure of the $2,500 for the survey.

Mayor Lawrence explained his proposal in a four-page typewritten memorandum which was read by Council. He pointed out the city faces an imminent deadline — if tolls are to be restored a bill must be introduced in the State Legislature by March 5. If the bill is not introduced by that time, the city would have to wait two years to drop a similar measure into the hopper at the Legislature’s next biennial session, he explained.

If the Legislature agreed to restore tolls, the funds could be credited toward the city’s share of construction of a four-lane highway that eventually will stretch from the city limits in California Hollow to the Ohio Pennsylvania state line. When tolls were restored, the Bridge Commission would take over the operation again from the Highway Department.

A similar system was used at Steubenville to finance a major project on the approach to the Ft. Steuben Bridge between Steubenville and Weirton. The span once was toll-free, but the charges were restored to finance the work on the Ohio side.

In his memo to Council, the mayor said there are two major considerations in financing the freeway by restoring tolls. First, the city could not raise its share of the money without bonding itself to the hilt, and second, motorists from outside the area would pay a major portion of the cost.

The city’s proposal should include

Norway’s Concerned About Soviet A-Tests

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norway is gravely concerned about Soviet nuclear explosions in the arctic which have produced strong radioactive fallout on this country, Foreign Minister Halvard Lange said today.

Lange told Parliament that there is no reason to believe the Soviet Union has failed to take possible precautions but such variables as wind and weather “may nevertheless result in accidents.”

One-Cent Tax Proposed On Pop In Ohio

Measure Calls For 2 Cents If Bottle Is Over 12 Ounces

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The money-hunting Ohio Legislature has received its first new-tax proposal—a penny a bottle on soft drinks, two cents if the bottle is bigger than 12 ounces.

The bill was introduced in the Ohio Senate Monday night by Sen. Julius Petrash (D-Cuyahoga). Petrash is chairman of the Senate Liquor Committee, but don’t draw any hasty conclusions. He sponsored virtually the same bill in 1957 when he wasn’t chairman.

Two years ago Petrash estimated the pop-tax bill would bring in 10 million dollars a year. It got nowhere in a Republican-controlled legislature.

All told, the two houses received 58 bills and three proposals for constitutional amendments as they met for their third week of work. The bill total stands now at 139 with 6½ weeks before introduction deadline, March 5.

The first of an expected parade of constitutional proposals to lift Ohio’s “forever” ban on lotteries was offered in the House by Rep. Howard A. Fortney (D-Ashtabula). He would change the constitution to permit the Legislature to write laws governing bingo games operated by religious, charitable or fraternal groups.

Three Republican powers in the House—Minority Whip Kline L. Roberts of Columbus, Joseph T. Lady of Kenton and Louis J. Schneider Jr. of Cincinnati—proposed annual General Assembly sessions. It now meets every two years. This, also, was a proposed constitutional change.

The third constitutional proposal—seldom mentioned in recent years—would permit the governor to make item-by-item reductions in a Legislature-approved budget bill. The proposal, offered by Rep. Fred Hoffman (R-Hamilton), also would give the governor authority to make section-by-section votes of any bill.

That matter has not been much in the public mind since former Gov. Martin L. Davey attempted some partial vetoes in the mid-thirties.

Briefly, there were other bills introduced to:

Increase the salary of the superintendent of insurance from $10,320 a year to $14,000—at the request of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. The head of the Insurance Department was left out on an earlier pay raise bill for the rest of the DiSalle Cabinet on a technicality.

Fix a $1-an-hour minimum wage in Ohio which now has no such general law.

Permit cities to levy a tax of up to $5 a year on resident autos.

Increase the state’s share of the local government fund by more than two million dollars a year—up from 24 millions.

Create a 20-million-dollar rotary fund for advance purchase of highway right-of-way by the state.

Permit cities to levy a tax on utility bills.

Permit dental care plans, similar to hospital and surgical insurance.

Pa. Parade Called Off

Gov. Lawrence’s inauguration parade at Harrisburg was reportedly called off today because of the weather. The Midland High School Band was in the Pennsylvania state capital to march in the event, and was due to return late tonight.

Council Enacts Regulation Of Junk Dealers

After writing in 2 amendments, Council gave unanimous passage Monday night to a comprehensive ordinance licensing and regulating junk yard operations that barely squeezed through first reading, 5-2, at the Jan. 5 session.

The legislation does not contain an emergency clause, so it will not go into effect for 30 days—about Feb. 19. Its principal features require that junk yards must be enclosed behind fences at least 7 feet high, place a limitation on the height to which wrecked autos can be piled and regulate burning of refuse.

Both amendments were suggested by Councilman A. Stanley Kidder, chairman of the ordinance committee and one of the two members who voted against passage two weeks ago.

The original ordinance said junk yard operators were not required to build a fence along the section of their property that fronts on a railway siding. That section was deleted, taking out the only exception to mandatory fencing.

The other clause required that junked cars could not be stacked more than 7 feet high. That clause was changed to read “not higher than the nearest fence.” Kidder said the amendment is reasonable because several of the junk yards lie well below street level and cars can be stacked more than 7 feet high without the possibility of tumbling on to a sidewalk or street.

Junk dealers are not permitted to start a refuse fire without written permission from the fire chief. The blaze must be at least 30 feet from the nearest building, the ordinance provides. If the yard is too small for compliance, the junk dealer must erect an incinerator in which to burn the trash, it provides.

The legislation also provides the dealers must maintain regular records of their purchases, which must be made available to police in search of stolen property.

The ordinance fixes an annual license fee of $50. It provides a fine of $50 for violations.

After the amendments were made, Councilmen Kidder and William Y. Orr—who also opposed the measure Jan. 5—joined the other four members in enacting the legislation.

Kidder proposed the amendments when the legislation came up for second reading. They were approved unanimously, which meant the ordinance automatically reverted to first reading because of the changes. Then it was approved without further discussion.

Chester Tract Cleared For Tank Firm Study

Clearing of trees and brush at the former tin mill site in Chester began Monday in preparation for a study of the tract for proposed construction of a tank storage facility.

William L. McDowd of Pittsburgh, president of the Transportation & Storage Development Co., said the land is being cleared to determine how much grading and other preliminary work is to be undertaken before the tanks can be built.

McDowd said nothing definite has yet been planned for construction of the facility, since a study of the terrain is preliminary to final negotiations for the building work.

The firm purchased the 12-acre site last year, and plans to lease tank storage space for industrial liquids. The tract was formerly the site of the American Sheet & Tinplate Co. which moved out of Chester in the early 1930’s.

$1.25 Instead Of 75 Cents

Prisoner Food Increase Sought

Council asked its finance committee Monday night to study a request from Safety-Service Director Dan Maggiani that the daily allowance for feeding a prisoner in the City Jail be raised to $1.25 from 75 cents, which he termed an "inhuman" level that allows the inmates only one square meal in 24 hours.

Under the present system, the city can afford to buy the prisoners a meal each evening, but they must eat bread and water for both breakfast and lunch, the director pointed out. Asking an increase in the allowance, he said the present rate apparently is fixed in an old city ordinance.

THE DIRECTOR pointed out that state law requires the chief of police to furnish "necessary food" for prisoners and also provides that Council must make the funds available. Another section of state law allows a county government to contract for meals from a restaurant or other agency at 75 cents a day, he said.

"At present the prisoners get one meal a day — at night," the director wrote. "They get bread and water for the other two meals. This smacks of inhuman treatment."

I recommend that the allowance be increased to $1.25."

The finance committee was authorized to study the recommendation, along with the ordinance committee, the director and Mayor Fred P. Lawrence. The city now buys bread for prisoners daily from a bakery truck, purchasing the single hot meal of the day from a restaurant near City Hall.

The director, in another letter, asked Council to give active consideration again to a series of suggestions he made originally on Sept. 5. At that time, he suggested:

APPROPRIATION of $4,000 to purchase mechanical sewer cleaning equipment; $1,000 for a training program for Civil Defense police and fire wardens; legislation to bond "Meter Maids" and the clerk of the Board of Control, and an ordinance allowing the police department to make a $1 charge for furnishing photostatic copies of traffic accident reports and other documents.

In his letter last night, the director said he made 10 suggestions in September, of which 3 were approved and 5 were bypassed. The letter was referred to the finance committee.

In other business, Councilman Samuel Webber reported a request for a parking ban on the east side of Monroe St. between Rural Ln. and W. 7th St. Parking on the stretch now blocks the view of motorists approaching the intersection on W. 7th, he said.

WEBBER ALSO REPORTED a suggestion for a change to diagonal parking on the west side of Washington St. between E. 4th St. and E. 5th St. The street is wide enough to permit the "nose in" parking, which would allow spaces for about a half a dozen more cars in the block-long stretch, Webber said. Both his suggestions were referred to the street committee.

The claims committee was given a letter from the law firm of Brookes, Lynch & McDonald, requesting a conference to present details of a claim against the city on behalf of a client. The law firm said it represents Mrs. Virginia Cochran of Oakmont, whose son and daughter were injured in an auto mishap on St. Clair Ave. Dec. 28.

The auto, driven by the son, hit a hole in the pavement, went out of control and hit a utility pole, injuring the boy and his sister, the letter said.

COUNCIL ALSO received a letter from Donald Duke, assistant superintendent of the water department, explaining that the Board of Public Utilities is to meet today with a group of five householders asking city water service in the area off Lisbon St. and west of St. Aloysius Cemetery. The group filed its request for service with Council Jan. 5, explaining that it now must depend upon cisterns.

Another letter from W. O. Schneider, chairman of the Utilities Board, asked Council to consider a request made last June to create the $245-a-month job of clerk-stenographer in the sewage billing department. The job was to have been created last summer when Council agreed to abolish the position of a temporary clerk, but apparently establishment of the new job was overlooked, Schneider said.

The ordinance committee was asked to study the request, along with the mayor and the director.

The meeting opened with invocation by Councilman W. E. Kaiser. Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. was excused.

GOP Rejects LA For 1960 Convention

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Republicans rejected "me-tooism" today with clear indications they will not follow the Democrats to Los Angeles for their 1960 presidential nominating convention.

GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn said his party is going to disregard the decision made by a Democratic site subcommittee, meeting in New Orleans last week to nominate that party's candidates in the Southern California city.

"There has been too much 'me-tooism' already," Alcorn said. "We are going to select our site and our date independently of what the Democrats have done." Alcorn added that "the television and radio folks are not going to like our decision." The networks have asked both parties to meet in the same city to reduce the expense of transferring equipment.

With Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco putting in formal bids today for the Republican convention, the contest appeared to lie primarily between Philadelphia and Chicago.

Philadelphia came in Monday with a bid of $375,000 cash, and fringe benefits. It was, in the words of Alcorn and other party leaders a powerfully attractive offer.

Miami Beach, Fla., offered $350,000, plus a pledge to pick up other expenses, but Alcorn made it clear that the Southern city is out of the running.

"We are not going anywhere just because of the money involved," he said in an interview. "There are many other considerations we have to take into account."

There was more than ordinary interest in the possibility that Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, would increase that city's $250,000 bid to the Democrats in

Remodeling Of Police Garage Gives Warm Place For Work

Installation of standard garage doors and the discovery that a gas heater, long considered unusable, is still in working condition, has converted the police garage into a heated enclosure where cruisers can be washed and minor repairs made.

Remodeling of the garage has been completed except for a few minor changes and painting, Mayor Fred P. Lawrence said.

The work included building a wooden front to lower the height of the entrance so standard overhead doors would fit. The former doors were oversized.

The big doors hadn't been lowered in years and the garage was used only to park cruisers or impound cars temporarily until they could be towed to a private garage.

Cruisers were washed in the garage in the summertime but the advent of cold weather would halt the work. Repairs had to be made at the "city barn" on Lisbon St.

Even veteran City Hall employees said the heater was useless.

The chain of events that led to the conversion started after employees complained of fumes from a gas heater installed in an adjoining room to pump heat into the cellblock, the mayor said.

A heating contractor made a minor adjustment and the mayor and Safety-Service Director Dan Maggiani then learned the heater was no longer required.

Conversion of a coal-fired boiler to gas and cleaning and adjusting of radiators has provided uniform heat throughout the building, Mayor Lawrence explained.

While examining the supplementary heater, the mayor asked the heating expert to check the heater in the garage and he found it working perfectly.

The mayor said the double set of doors was ordered with the old set being traded in to give a space that can be used year-around.

Prior to repeal of the city income tax, the administration was considering converting the garage into a police headquarters with offices for the deskman and police chief. Storage space also would have been available for equipment.

Council Reduces Fees For Sign, Bill Posting

Council unanimously approved legislation Monday night cutting from $250 to $10 the annual fee for a license for "bill-posting, advertising sign painting, card-tacking and bill-distributing."

It's the last in a series of ordinances to amend or revoke old city licensing laws. Council was told several weeks ago by a delegation of sign painters and bill posters that the high fee was established in depression days to discourage rate-cutting transients.

Previously, Council revoked licensing ordinances for barber and beauty shops and amended the laws governing permits for theaters and circuses.

Rev. Martin Moderator Of U.P.'s Synod

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Rev. George W. Martin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Steubenville, has been named moderator of the newly created United Presbyterian Synod of Ohio.

He was elected at the organizational meeting here Monday.

Other officers named at the meeting at the Broad Street Presbyterian Church were the Rev. Harry W. Eberts Jr. of Marietta, vice moderator; the Rev. Albert W. Wright of Columbus, state clerk; the Rev. George A. Johnson of Ashtabula and the Rev. J. Paul Graham of Canton, permanent clerks; A. C. Moore of Columbus, treasurer; Paul Arnold of Columbus, assistant treasurer, and the Rev. Harry R. Roach of Columbus, synod executive.

The synod voted to organize on the basis of eight general presbyters and Cleveland and Cincinnati presbyters.

At the meeting, the synod (state) levels of the United Presbyterian Church of North America and the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. were merged. The new church is the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. which has 716 congregations and a membership of 262,000 in Ohio.

Ohio Couple Arrested For Altering Money

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—A Chillicothe area man and woman have been arrested by the U.S. Secret Service on charges of altering $10 and $1 bills.

Arrested were Eunice J. Bland, 21, of Rt. 5, Chillicothe, and Ronald L. Mankin, 22, of 370 Clay St., Chillicothe.

The pair is charged with splitting and pasting the bills and passing them all as $10 bills.

Conviction of altering bills in this manner calls for a 15-year prison sentence, an agent said.

Board Approves Plan

Free Summer Classes Authorized For Failing Upper Grade Students

Tuition-free summer classes for seventh and eighth grade students who fail one or two subjects was approved Monday night by the Board of Education.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts said no summer school courses for pupils under the ninth grade have been held for some time and the policy has been for students failing one major subject to repeat the entire grade.

Under the new program, the students could repeat the subjects in summer school and then continue with their class. Those who fail more than two subjects or those who do not attend the summer classes still would repeat the entire grade, he added.

STUDENTS WHO barely receive a passing grade in a subject and desire to brush up also could attend, the superintendent said. Classes probably wouldn't be held unless 10 or 12 pupils are registered.

The board also approved Sunday, May 31, for the baccalaureate service and Tuesday, June 2, for commencement exercises. The dates were recommended by George Hargraves, high school principal.

A letter of resignation from Everett R. Little of Wellsville, boiler fireman at the high school, was referred to Supt. Betts.

In his letter, Little said, "In my opinion, the coal that I have been using... is in complete violation of your coal contract (as I have heard it explained). This condition has brought about unnecessary hardship in extra work and extra hours."

He also requested a week's vacation pay for completing the first half of the school year.

BETTS SAID LITTLE has been in "constant disagreement" over the coal used in the stoker. A combustion engineer from the firm which manufactures the stoker said the coal containing up to 30 per cent slack could be fired and saw no need to screen the coal during the daytime, Betts reported.

The board also accepted the resignation of Mrs. Betty Jane Cooper as a high school teacher and approved the appointment of Carl Weegar and John Rossi as secondary school teachers.

The board also authorized the rental of school property to six groups during February and March. The rentals included:

WESTGATE AUDITORIUM to the Civic Music Association for a concert Feb. 2 for a $50 fee; Memorial Auditorium to the LaCroft Home and School Association for a concert March 7 for custodial fees only; Westgate gymnasium to the Business & Professional Women's Club March 12-14 for the Tri-State Science Fair for custodial fees only; Westgate auditorium and cafeteria March 20-21 to the Barbershop Quartet Society for rehearsal and annual "Parade of Quartets" for a fee totaling $83; Memorial Auditorium Feb. 21 to the Order of Eastern Star for a $25 fee for an installation service for Job's Daughters, and Memorial Auditorium March 23-28 to the Blue and White Nonpareil Club for its annual junior basketball tournament for a fee of $30 a night.

Leo C. Lawrence, new president, announced his standing committees for the year. They include James Lowe and C. Walter Ashbaugh, finance; Samuel W. Brown and Ashbaugh, athletic board representatives, and James B. Moss and Brown, buildings.

MISS KATHRYN Liebschner, clerk-treasurer, reported the school enrollment as of Monday was 5,377 pupils, one more than on the same date in 1958. The certification is required by state law before the board can appropriate funds to its service account for traveling expenses for board members. It is allowed to appropriate 5 cents per pupil or $300, whichever is larger.

She also reported a balance of $144,132 in school funds, including $109,694 in the general fund; $29,105, bond retirement; $201.65, workbooks; $3,826, cafeteria; $864, improvement; $15, firemen's training; $139, carpenter training; $16, foremen's training, and $269.17, night school.

Miss Liebschner said it probably will be necessary to borrow money to meet the February payroll since today's pay for teachers will take nearly $84,000 of the amount in the general fund.

Moss, chairman, said his building committee is "pretty well satisfied with the housekeeping" at McKinley, Pleasant Heights, Lincoln and Taft buildings. A partial inspection also has been made of the high school building.

THE COMMITTEE will not make any recommendations until after a report is received from Paul Baxter, deputy state building inspector, who inspected the Pleasant Heights and Lincoln buildings along with Asst. Fire Chief James Pelley and Supt. Betts.

The committee, meanwhile, will continue its inspections as quickly as time permits. It still must inspect Glenmoor, LaCroft, Memorial Auditorium, Westgate and East Junior High, he said.

Betts reported mathematics teachers have begun a study of the curriculum in the 7th to 12th grades with the possibility of making some changes. High school courses now are being studied and junior high teachers will be asked to join in the study later.

BETTS SAID consideration is being given to elimination of some courses of little practical use and combining other courses.

Asked by Lowe what progress has been made on the diversified co-operative program, Betts said the chief drawback has been the lack of a qualified instructor. "We are not giving up hope," he commented.

Lowe said the program is needed since about 75 per cent of the local students will not go onto college and the program under which they would receive "on-the-job" training combined with studies would be useful. Industries have a chronic problem in finding skilled men, he pointed out.

LOWE SAID several former East Liverpool students, however, are doing well in their careers. He pointed out Paul Miller, who was an elementary student at Horace Mann, has been appointed vice president of Michigan State University; James Miller is a principal in the Euclid school system under Dr. W. G. Fordyce, former local superintendent, and Eli Najem, a 1947 graduate, is an instructor at the University of Wisconsin.

Because of the Civic Music Association concert, the board advanced its time for the meeting Feb. 2 to 6:30 p. m.

1958 Had 'Variety'

Comedy To Pathos In Firemen's Calls

If variety's the spice of life, firemen should live to an old age—their duties in 1958 ranged from the tragic to the incongruous.

No Hollywood scriptwriter could dream up a more absurd scene than one in which an ash bucket begins shooting at firemen. But it happened here!

It all started late last winter when firemen received a call to investigate a defective furnace. During the investigation, they pulled hot ashes from the furnace and dumped them into a supposedly empty bucket.

SUDDENLY, slight popping noises were heard and ashes began flying around the basement. When the "shooting" ceased, firemen discovered the householder had placed some live .22-caliber shells in the bucket!

Not all are so weird but fire-fighters believe they have their share among the 180 miscellaneous calls answered last year.

Chief Charles Bryan isn't so sure, for example, that dog is man's best friend.

The chief went to help free a dog whose leg was wedged between some rocks on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." For his effort, the chief's reward was a case of oak poisoning that kept him off-duty four days.

And another dog provided firemen with one of their more humorous incidents. The animal mistook an electrical outlet for a fire hydrant, shorting the outlet.

THAT WASN'T BAD enough but a few days later firemen got another call from the same householder. "That dog did it again!" she reported.

The difficulties youngsters can get into also keep firemen busy. A distraught mother called for aid one day in the spring when her youngster fell into a furnace pipe and was out of reach. The mother had removed a register to clean out the heat duct and her curious son fell in the opening.

A passerby saw the tearful mother anxiously awaiting firemen, learned what happened and managed to rescue the boy before the firemen arrived.

Three other youngsters also managed to occupy the center of the stage, or perhaps it should be roof, for awhile.

They climbed to the roof of Memorial Auditorium to retrieve a ball and then were unable to climb back down. Firemen took a 24-foot ladder to the building and the lads descended the easy way.

AND FIREMEN ALSO went to the rescue of a young girl who caught her foot and leg in a shower drain. They had to break some tile before freeing her.

A frantic mother phoned firemen a year ago to unlock a door so she could reach her two-week-old baby. The mother had entered the basement and the door blew shut with the knob falling off.

Even when residents are far, far away, firemen aren't always safe. One man called long distance to have a fireman enter his home to see if he left his electric razor plugged in. "It's better to be safe than sorry," firemen reasoned.

But the grim side of fire fighting is always present.

A TRAGIC FIRE Nov. 12 claimed the lives of a young father and his three sons trapped in their apartment on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." The mother, the only member of the family to survive, still is unable to account for the fire and firemen still list the cause as undetermined.

An elderly woman was severely burned in another blaze when her night clothing caught fire from a heater.

Firemen also suffered injuries while combating blazes. Merle McShane and Don Hancock were hospitalized after inhaling chlorine gas while fighting the filtration plant fire last April.

Every fireman who fought the blaze was listed on the sick and injured list, Chief Bryan reported.

FIREMAN JOHN Taylor was hospitalized at least twice with smoke inhalation while fighting different fires. Asst. Chief Alfred VanDyne suffered a foot injury and Fireman Ed Greenwood received a rib injury while fighting a fire in a May St. home Dec. 15.

Eight emergency calls were received to aid people in distress and seven others were made for the department's rescuer. Two emergency first aid calls also were received.

The most frequent call (39 times) was to flush gasoline from gutters while complaints on burning rubbish and investigation of gas leaks ranked high on the list of the miscellaneous calls.

"When we're out, someone has trouble, even if it's minor," firemen say.

When the trucks are standing idle in the station, an unthinking person may believe firemen are loafing but a thinking person realizes that lives and property are not being endangered by fire, firemen reason.

Every fireman who fought the blaze was listed on the sick and injured list, Chief Bryan reported.

The abductions complaints said Deavers and Kennedy held up the Cecil Roth station Friday evening and when their car stalled during the getaway attempt, they flagged down the truck driven by Francis Gehring.

Gehring told authorities the men jumped in his truck, pointed a gun at him and ordered him to drive on. He said they took $79 from him, and tied his hands to the truck's steering wheel, and left him in a Youngstown, Ohio, parking lot some six hours later.

Legion Plans Dimes Block

Wellsville Post Will Solicit On Saturday

Plans for a Block of Dimes campaign Saturday were outlined at a meeting of Wellsville American Legion Post 70 Monday night.

The Legionnaires will conduct the drive for the March of Dimes along Main St. between Kountz Alley and 5th St. from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. The members will be served hot coffee and doughnuts. The auxiliary will assist in the project.

Miniature "blocks" will be set up at the Potters Bank & Trust Co. at 4th St. and the Central Federal Savings & Loan Association at 6th St.

Headquarters will be set up in Johnnie's News & Gifts at 5th and Main. George Lawton, commander, asked all men to report to him. A March of Dimes dance will be held later. No date was set. A joint coverdish dinner with the auxiliary to discuss post finances will be held Monday at 6:30 p. m. Lawton and Mrs. Delores Excell will be in charge.

Francis House and William

Powell were appointed to contact the Pittsburgh Steelers and Cleveland Browns professional football teams about playing a benefit game for post-Christmas fund.

A telephone committee of five was named to contact all members before a meeting and urge them to attend.

Members discussed an editorial in the Ohio Legion News, which said television is keeping members away from meetings.

Hope Almost Given Up Wandering Boy Alive

LEBANON, Mo. (AP)—Weary searchers have almost given up hope that 3-year-old Willard Eugene Jones Jr. is alive.

The boy wandered off into dense Ozark timber around his farm home Saturday afternoon. The temperature dropped to 19 degrees that night.

Sheriff Neil Brown called off the organized search temporarily Monday night. But determined volunteers, including 500 soldiers from nearby Ft. Leonard Wood, were to make another effort today, despite forecasts of freezing rain and snow.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jones Sr., and their eight other children have stayed close to the home, waiting for word.

Yule Welfare Reports Given For Salvation Army's Board

At the initial meeting of the year of the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, reports of the Christmas and winter welfare appeal were heard. Alvin Arner, chairman, presided.

A collection of $3,437.04 was received from the street kettles, $791.28, counter receptacles, and $2,824.29 from direct and mail contributions, for a total of $7,052.61.

It was also reported that 250 families were assisted with groceries, clothing, rent and fuel, with 1,034 persons aided.

Two children's celebrations were held with 370 in attendance. Toys and treats were given to 1,500 children in the area and Yule sound films were furnished to area schools for showing.

In the cheer program, 450 patients in 11 institutions in the area were given gifts and treats.

Institutions visited were convalescent homes, the County Home, and the City and Osteopathic Hospitals.

Forty-eight inmates of the city and County Jails were remembered with gifts and treats.

Maj. William Murtaugh, corps commander, and Donald Baxter jointly expressed their gratitude to Harold Allison, who served as general chairman, and to members of the board, workers, communications channels and all interested citizens for their hearty co-operation and warm response.

There May Be More Important Things

The transcript of President Eisenhower's answers to 15 questions put to him at the National Press Club last Wednesday may well become a document of historic importance. It revealed what kind of a man has evolved out of the experiences survived by the soldier who led the Allies to victory in Europe in World War II.

This was Dwight Eisenhower's unintentional and unrehearsed rebuttal to the charge that he hasn't turned out to be enough of a politician; that he lacks understanding of the devious ways of the political mind.

On every question put to him, his answer was that of a moderate man trying to find the truth that lies between extremes of opinion. His remarks were more like those that might be given by a philosopher than by the holder of a high elective office.

He revealed in his answer to one question that he believes in respect for the rights of others as a prescription for harmony in human affairs. He asked newspapermen to try to remember when they were pressing him for news that he saw no reason to make news artificially and it was his presidential right to decide for himself when he would have a press conference.

ONE OF HIS most revealing statements came in answer to the last question: Was his idea of retirement the same as it was 11 years ago when he said, "Put a chair on the porch, sit in it for six months and then begin to rock slowly?"

He said that all his life he had been under pressure to work. He had not objected to work but to the necessity of working whether he felt like it or not. He said he would like to sit in a chair until he felt like getting out of it and going back to work. He admitted he was tired.

One day last week there was a picture of the President swinging a golf club on the White House grounds. We suppose there were the usual surly remarks by critics who frequently limit their own efforts to 35 hours a week. The picture is not easy to put out of mind. Americans may have more reason to remember it than informal pictures of other presidents.

THERE HAS BEEN created in this republic a job unlike any other government position anywhere on earth. The president of the United States is expected to lead the nation by example and persuasion, not by bullying, terrorism, or cunning.

There is no pat formula for doing it. Each president must choose his own way. Dwight Eisenhower has chosen to be scrupulously fair to all; to be tolerant and temperate in his views; to exemplify as nearly as he can the American attitude of fair play — and to be as decently human as any man is allowed to be in the White House.

Perhaps there are more important things than being just another politician. There never will be any shortage of politicians in Washington.

Diplomacy Is Not Show Business

It is undeniable that Anastas Mikoyan was a sensational guest for "Meet the Press."

Everybody wants to talk about what he said and didn't say and what was proved and wasn't proved. The American people have gone into a "committee of the whole" to talk about their foreign policy concerning the Soviet Union.

This is interesting — and a little frightening.

Foreign policy is too ticklish to trust to Anastas Mikoyan, Lawrence Spivak, Marquis Childs and other panelists on a television show.

On the often-demonstrated assumption that the Russians always know what they are doing because if they flub they lose their heads, it can be assumed Mikoyan wanted to be on "Meet the Press." He knew what he was doing.

But it is hard to be sure that Americans know what they are doing when they let him make a television pitch on one of the most difficult and dangerous problems of the century—American-Russian relations.

For better or worse, Mikoyan — No. 2 official in the Soviet Union — has been given a chance to speak his piece to a mass audience of Americans.

For better or worse, Mikoyan has been presented to the American people as a foreign-policy spokesman when in fact he is Russia's economic boss, not its foreign secretary.

For better or worse, a high Russian official traveling in this country unofficially has been permitted to leave the impression that the United States officially is up against a stone wall in its negotiations about Berlin; that there is no hope of settlement; that Russia is irreconcilable.

We suspect it is not for better but for worse.

We do not think sensitive international negotiations over hair-trigger problems that could blow the world to bits if they got out of control should be manhandled on television.

Mikoyan can't be blamed for taking advantage of free enterprise to make a monkey of its free-and-easy ways. But free enterprise can be blamed for making a monkey of itself.

Not The Money But The Principle

There isn't a figure in the new presidential budget that won't be changed by Congress. Most of them will be changed upward, Congress being what it is and what Mr. Eisenhower warned its majority would be after last November's election — a collection of public spenders.

So what is the President trying to prove with talk about a balanced budget, a surplus and hope of tax reductions later?

He is advising his fellow Americans and the world that he has taken his stand for dollar stability.

He is letting it be known that he would rather go slow on spending and give taxpayers a break than to go fast and give spenders a break.

When they get through with his budget, they will have spent enough to throw it out of balance, even if they have the courage to slap on the one and a third billion dollars' worth of additional taxes he recommends. He knows this.

But he hopes that he will be able to cool them off and pump a little stability into the shrinking value of the American dollar by throwing his official weight behind a spending slowdown.

This is not what the British and French would call an austerity program, but the motive is the same. The aim is to stabilize the monetary base on which all government and private activity must rest.

The United States has its largest peacetime deficit looming — nearly 13 billion dollars. Every country on earth is waiting to see what happens when chronic deficits happen in the United States, whose financial experts have been preaching financial stability to other nations. Experts in monetary matters are watching with special interest.

A large part of the world's exchange is based on the value of dollars. At an instant in history when Europe is beginning to experiment with convertible currencies and Britain's sterling area is showing confidence in the pound, the United States is on the spot.

Its spenders and its savers are in a contest to decide vastly more than the size of the great American gravy train. They are helping to decide whether the United States should devalue its own money.

'Hazardous Driving'

The "hazardous driving warning" issued Monday by the state of Ohio has moved over into today with more treacherous snow. It is not a difficult situation to forecast weatherwise, being merely a matter of putting snow and ice together and coming up with the answer.

The big need is for motorists to observe such warnings—which are certain to occur time and again before spring—and drive accordingly.

Monday's Review carried stories of cars skidding and wrecking as the result of slippery highways. And while we hope not, it is quite likely today's run of news will bring more of the same.

There always will be such accidents so long as the weather kicks up its heels. But they can be reduced in number through caution.

When the state puts out a "hazardous driving warning" take it at its word and move carefully for safety's sake. Icy roads are a danger anywhere, but they hold an extra threat in hilly terrain such as ours.

By H. I. Phillips

take to treetops immediately after indorsing any driver as reliable, or even friendly.

They propose to take a group of traffic law violators, measure their attitudes and train them for a time. Then they will check on their driving manners to see which bad traits discovered in the group are most responsible for careless driving.

Will the fellow who has a hostile disposition turn out to be a better driver than the one who is just thoughtless? Will the emotionally unstable driver scare pedestrians less than the one the psychiatrists found impulsive?

Sounds screwy here. We stick to our own psychiatry test: If a driver's feet can reach the accelerator, he is a road menace.

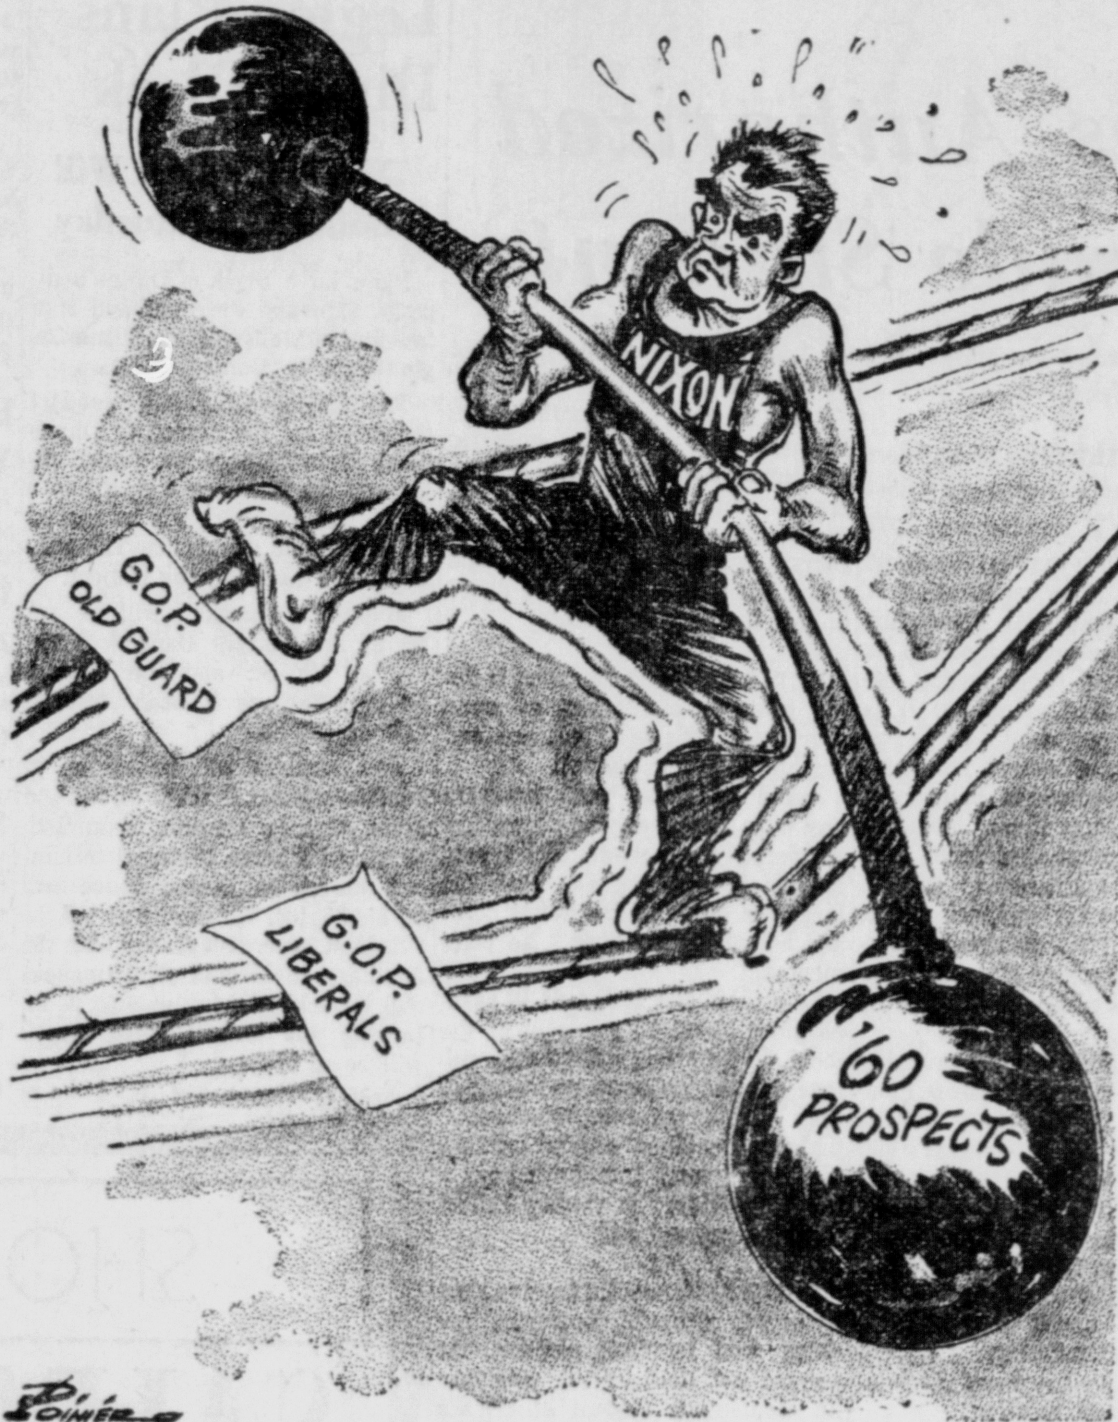

"Epitaph for George Dillon," Broadway drama which closed after a brief run, has been reopened. Epitaph should read:

Double Wire Act

Hope Seen For Labor Racket Law

By Victor Riesel

On Friday, Jan. 9, for the first time in history, a president of the United States had to take valuable time in a State of the Union message to deplete racketeering. The entire nation now watches Congress for action. For an exclusive inside view of what is happening on this front, I put four questions to President Eisenhower's Secretary of Labor James Mitchell. Here are his replies:

Q. Do you think Congress will pass labor legislation this session? If so, what in your opinion should it cover?

A. I have every hope that Congress will pass a good labor bill this session. I think the failure of the last Congress to do so will improve this year's chances. After five years of attempting to see good legislation get through Congress, however, I realize that problems that exist in the critical committees. One of these committees, of course, "buried" last year's bill.

The President is going to submit a program, as he did last year, which will provide the means to help decent labor leaders in their fight against the corrupt elements present in some unions.

IT WILL HELP individual workers to get the kind of leaders they want and it will prevent the theft of their dues money.

This legislation will be based on reporting, publication and investigation of union financial affairs.

It will contain provisions dealing with the secret ballot in union elections.

It will provide strong penalties for lawbreakers, such as loss of tax exemption privileges and the services of the National Labor Relations Board. This will help good trade unionists to rid their organizations of hoodlums and phony labor leaders. This is the type of legislation that the Congress should enact.

Q. What do you see as the most serious and difficult problem labor and management will face in '59?

A. There are two major problems facing labor and management in 1959. There is the problem of curbing labor corruption and there is the matter of maintaining a stable and sound economy—and maintaining it in an environment of self-restraint and understanding that the national welfare is the ultimate concern of every citizen, whatever his private role may be.

In attacking corruption, labor has produced a commendable record, by and large, and, as I have indicated, the President's type of legislation would go a long way toward helping to correct many of the abuses that remain.

Genuine and lasting reform, however, can come only through voluntary action by both labor and management.

THE SOUNDNESS of our economy requires that leaders of economic life consider more than the limited, special interests of any one group. Everybody has a stake in a healthy economy.

Labor leaders have a responsibility, as do business leaders, to be thoughtful and moderate in their approach to wage and price problems.

Q. Would you like to see a U.N. Assembly type of labor-management conference, such as has been suggested by Arthur Goldberg? If so, what do you think should be discussed?

A. I thought Mr. Goldberg's address represented a thoughtful and sincere approach to the problem of finding common ground between labor and management. Now as to whether or not there is currently in effect some type of drifting away from that common ground, as Mr. Goldberg seems to indicate, I am sure.

I have always believed that exchanges of views, conversations between labor and management—carried on outside the tensions and immediate needs of the bargaining table—could establish some very valuable lines of communication and respect.

I doubt if Mr. Goldberg is "wedded" to the idea of an "assembly" as the only means of creating such an exchange.

THERE MAY BE better means. My own feeling is that when labor and management meet, they must do so of their own volition. They have plenty of things in common. The initiative for such a meeting, therefore, should come from them and not from government.

Q. What is it like to be secretary of labor in a Republican administration when 95 per cent of labor's leaders have backed Democrats?

A. The party affiliation of labor leaders means little to me. My concern is the welfare of all working people, organized or unorganized. I am not secretary of labor only for 19½ million union members, but for the entire labor force of the United States—some 67 million men and women.

Furthermore, politics aside, all of us close to labor affairs have a job to do—and on the specific parts of that job, all honest labor leaders in this country have the same interest in the working man and woman that I do.

Whatever their political inclinations, they know that this administration has helped working people practically and specifically in countless ways during the past six years—like extending unemployment insurance, raising the minimum wage and setting forth government policies that have enabled the economy to produce the highest levels of income and the highest standard of living in our history.

There should be no politics when it comes to the welfare of individuals. My relations with most labor leaders have always been most cordial and fruitful, for they are based largely on the same fields of interest.

Free-Wheeling Red Move?

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Anastas I. Mikoyan, home-bound today, left a trail of questions behind him. They can be boiled down to two: why did he come? What was the result of his visit?

A modern form of self-torture is to try to read the Kremlin's mind. Many interpretations have been put on the Soviet deputy premier's visit here.

But the reason for his trip may be this simple: He just wanted to look around and, as a byproduct, create a little good will for the Soviet Union.

So far as is known he didn't budge an inch on anything and neither did the Eisenhower administration.

It's traditional, in thinking of relations between nations, to regard everything one of them does as a profound, stiff, stuffy and highly meaningful move or counter-move in high diplomacy.

It might sometimes be more realistic, in the case of the Soviets, to think of some of their actions in simpler terms.

They've broken a lot of diplomatic rules since Nikita Khrushchev became boss and Mikoyan his right-hand man. For example: All the letter writing to President Eisenhower last year on a summit conference.

Khrushchev dropped the whole idea when it suited him. He had made some good propaganda at home with it, and perhaps a little headway with other people.

The Soviets have done the same thing other times, in other ways.

They've twisted, turned, dodged, ducked, proposed, and reversed themselves as it suited them.

Why these tactics? One explanation could be that they look on us with contempt, think we're slow and pompous, figure they can jab and poke and dance around us, like kids in a cartoon calling a rich, fat man names and knocking his high silk hat off.

Since neither side wants a shooting war — it costs the Soviet Union nothing to try all sorts of unorthodox things. If it gains a little, good, so long as, if it loses, it doesn't lose much.

The Kremlin didn't figure to lose by sending Mikoyan here. He is well able to take care of himself.

By his visit the Soviet might gain a little goodwill, although that could well be a secondary consideration so long as he got a look around, met some people, and did some talking intended to be beneficial to the Soviet Union.

It shouldn't have been surprising that he neither revealed nor proposed anything new. It would have been surprising if he had.

The Soviets are hard bargainers. For Mikoyan to come here and make concessions, without getting plenty in return, wouldn't have been bargaining.

The fact that he offered nothing new during his trip is pretty good evidence he came for the ride. His visit looks like just one of the impromptu, free-wheeling moves the Soviets have used since Khrushchev came to power.

Down Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Ohio River steamboats resumed trips between Pittsburgh, Wheeling and Cincinnati as many gorges of ice were cleared from the stream by a recent rise.

William J. Brown, son of Postmaster and Mrs. Austin Brown of Newell, a teacher in the schools at Hilo, Hawaii, was advised of his election to Pi Gamma Mu Fraternity.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Dr. Milton Wolpert of Chester supervised the Chester baby clinic at the K of P Hall.

A combined radio and victrola was installed at the East End pond to provide music for skaters.

Robert F. Beatty, local architect, became secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Ohio Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

TEN YEARS AGO — Students at Salineville High School witnessed a demonstration in radar and telephone at a special assembly.

Russell J. Whately became local manager of the Western Union Telegraph Co. office, succeeding the late George A. Rice.

Warren's Resignation

By David Lawrence

Justice's ABA Resignation A Mystery

Chief Justice Earl Warren has resigned as a member of the American Bar Association — but how he did it and why is something of a mystery. He says he wrote a letter of resignation in the autumn of 1957. The association's secretary says no such letter was received. Only when a bill for current dues was presented to the chief justice did the association learn that he wanted to resign.

To clarify the matter, the chief justice now has written a formal letter of resignation but he does not give any reasons.

Rumors have been current here for some time, however, that the chief justice was withdrawing from the American Bar Association. They were heard more often just after the Conference of State Chief Justices adopted last August, by a vote of 36 to 8, a report critical of various decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The report was submitted by a committee established by the conference at its annual meeting in August 1957 in a resolution "expressing concern" over "recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States."

It had been widely reported that Chief Justice Warren was not only miffed at the 1957 action but was particularly disturbed when a speech criticizing Supreme Court decisions was delivered on Aug. 25, 1958, by Chief Justice John R. Dethmers of Michigan, chairman of the Conference of State Chief Justices.

THIS WAS at the annual dinner in honor of the judiciary given by the American Bar Association's section of judicial administration.

Besides Chief Justice Warren, Justices Clark and Brennan of the Supreme Court of the United States were present and heard the Michigan chief justice say:

"The conference report, so far from attacking the court, expresses only its concern with certain of the decisions. It contains no applause for suggestions on the political front that the court be stripped, by congressional action, of any of its traditional powers."

"The power of the court to uphold and preserve human liberty and the rights of the people must not be crippled, curbed or destroyed. The conference report would have none of this."

"It concludes, therefore, in most respectful and temperate terms, and with extreme restraint, to urge upon the court, that, particularly in the field of determining federal and state powers and relationships, it exercise that greatest of all judicial powers, the power of judicial self-restraint, by constant recognition and giving effect to the vital difference between what, on the one hand, the Constitution prescribes or permits and that which, on the other, may, from time to time, to the majority of the court, seem, desirable or undesirable, and by adhering firmly to its tremendous, strictly judicial powers and eschewing so far as possible the exercise of essentially legislative powers, contenting itself with use of the policy-making role, where at all necessary, with only the utmost care and moderation."

"SUCH IS the general tenor of the report, offered in a spirit of good will and cooperation in the public interest. If, perchance, it should come to the attention of the esteemed members of the court, it is our fervent wish and hope that it will be received and 'considered in like fashion.'"

But evidently it wasn't. The comment among members of the Bar around Washington was that not only was Chief Justice Warren annoyed but that so were the other two members of the Supreme Court who were present.

It seems incredible, however, that any members of the federal judiciary—particularly those who are so quick to crack down on the intolerance of School Boards or State Bar Associations when they frown upon teachers or applicants with a Communist background—would be intolerant about speeches or criticisms by fellow members of the legal profession, especially state jurists.

THE REPORT adopted by the Conference of State Chief Justices unfortunately was not published in full text by those newspapers in the East which usually give considered space to such pronouncements, so the report itself has not had the widespread reading which it otherwise might have had.

An exchange of letters recently between U.S. Attorney General Rogers and Chief Judge Brune of Maryland's highest court, chairman of the committee which prepared the report, performed a service in drawing attention to the fact that the state chief justices did not mention the desegregation cases but did call for the exercise of "judicial self-restraint" in many other decisions affecting state and federal relationships.

The wider impact of the State Chief Justices' report has been misrepresented by those who have passed it off as just another argument on the subject of desegregation, when actually the subject wasn't touched on by the state chief justices.

The report does, of course, expose the weaknesses and inconsistencies of the U.S. Supreme Court in many recent decisions.

And Away We Go!

By Truman Twill

Today's text is taken from an incident that happened 150 feet above the ground near Oakland, Calif., when a fly-boy accidentally touched the seat-ejector button in his jet training plane.

Whoosh!

The fly-boy, seat and everything, went straight up. The automatic chute-opener worked flawlessly, and the fly-boy landed on his chops, safe, but astonished. He didn't have enough altitude for parachuting.

But it is not parachuting we want to preach about. It is the idea of being able to touch a button and put yourself somewhere else in a split second.

This is an indispensable option for fly-boys in jets. The ejection apparatus whose workability was demonstrated accidentally in California was made in Britain for the protection of aviators.

But the British have hold of something bigger than they yet have realized. If a seat-ejector can be made to lob an occupant of a jet plane out of there in nothing flat, it could lob any occupant of any seat out of there in nothing flat.

It could spew out the passengers of an automobile at the instant of impact in case of a wreck and hang them up safely in nearby trees. It could disperse the occupants of an air liner at the moment of impact, to keep them away from the holocaust that burns up the passengers not already done in by the grinding and twisting of the wreckage. Only those who are thrown clear survive.

It would be frightening and frequently it would be fatal to be shot into nearby space in the event of an accident. But it would be no more frightening and far less frequently fatal than to be ground up like hamburger or roasted like a chicken.

The damage in wrecks is not done at the moment of impact, but in the seconds and even the minutes after the impact. If there were some way of letting the wreck go on by itself, while the humans who otherwise would be part of it went flying into the air, with or without parachutes, the result couldn't be anything but a net gain for security.

In all probability, parachutes wouldn't be worth the trouble. They would only be in the way at low-level maneuvers. Besides, they would be psychologically undesirable. They would remind passengers of what might happen.

It would be far better for it to happen without forewarning, like the accidents happen. No one ever really puts all his thoughts to bear on what could happen if the automobile he is riding in smacked into another car, or into some other obstacle.

If he did, he would turn into a pedestrian.

But with an automatic seat ejector that would peel back the top and lob the seat and its occupants into the air at the instant of any impact great enough to spell "accident," it would not be necessary to think about it. It would all be over zip, zip, zip. Bang! And away we go! Out of harm's reach.

The Once Over

The psychology department at Columbia has a new idea for cutting down auto accidents. It would ascertain traits of drivers BEFORE they drive, measuring impulsiveness, hostility, emotional stability, thoughtfulness, etc. Job will require psychiatrists and "measurement techniques."

This seems to be unnecessary work. All it takes to measure bad drivers is a brief look at traffic in any street. Any driver who is not impulsive, hostile, emotional and thoughtless will be a standout.

The minute a human being gets hands on an auto wheel the Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde switch takes place. Hostility develops. Thoughtlessness erupts like a rash. Impulsiveness sweeps like a jungle fever.

Emotional instability comes with the car, the gasoline and the gear shift. The man who kisses babies, opens doors for women and is always a gentleman on foot climbs into an auto and—presto!—he becomes a bully, a Wild Man of Borneo and Chief of Headhunters' Tribe.

Our advice to Columbia psychologists is to

Preston Outlines Highway Plans

Urban Traffic Congestion To Receive Top Priority

By DUANE CROFT
Review Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The problem of urban traffic congestion will get top priority in his road program, Ohio Highway Director Everett S. Preston, said Monday.

"We plan to give urban congestion the attention it deserves," Preston said in an interview, "and by urban, we do not mean just Cleveland, Columbus or Cincinnati. We consider (your city) an urban center as far as highway problems are concerned."

The new director's remarks were included in a statement of criterion he said he will use in setting up his program. This criterion, he said, is based solely upon need.

"We will not spread projects all over Ohio's 83 counties just to be spreading projects," he said.

"Neither will we confine ourselves to Interstate Route No. 1

(North-South Freeway). An analysis of safety factors, economic burdens, time elements and the frayed nerves of motorists will determine what projects are most needed."

The director said his program will be drawn up after the completion of an inventory of money available and the status of projects already in the planning stage. He said he expects to have the results of the inventory in 10 days to two weeks.

Preston said any project for which funds have not actually been allotted will be included in inventory and therefore could be speeded up or delayed because of it. After the inventory, Preston said, a section will be set up in his department to expedite the solution of urban highway problems.

Along with urban congestion, the highway director, who has been in office one week, ranked high on the list of priority projects those which will fill in gaps in major programs. This includes projects needed to render peak effectiveness to highways or portions of highways already completed.

Preston also said a vehicle mile formula rather than actual dollar costs will be used to determine routes. He said such a formula takes into consideration the use of a proposed route will get and therefore more nearly determine the highways real value.

Where there is controversy over proposed highway plans, Preston said, "we believe that if we have the facts we should be able to convince those who disagree with us."

He added however that in such controversies the highway department will keep an open mind. If facts can be presented to warrant a change in state recommendations they will be accepted.

District Man Heads Synod

Steubenville Pastor Named As Moderator

A member of the delegation of 16 district representatives from the Steubenville Presbytery was elected as moderator of the new United Presbyterian Synod of Ohio at Columbus today.

He is the Rev. George W. Martin, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Steubenville, chosen at the organization meeting of the new synod at the Broad St. Presbyterian Church.

The meeting merged on the synod state level the United Presbyterian Church of North America and the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. into the new synod, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

The session, uniting 716 congregations, including 262,000 members in Ohio, resulted from the union of the two groups in Pittsburgh last May.

In today's meeting, the Rev. Harry W. Eberts Jr. of Marietta was named vice moderator, the Rev. Albert W. Wright, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Columbus, as stated clerk, and the Rev. George A. Johnson of Ashland and the Rev. J. Paul Graham of Canton, as permanent clerks.

A. C. Moore and Paul Arnold, both of Columbus, were elected treasurer and assistant treasurer, respectively.

National School Heads To See Westgate Model

School administrators throughout the nation will get a look at the Westgate School during the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators Feb. 14-18 in Atlantic City.

Supt. Ralph W. Betts told the Board of Education Monday night that Firestone &amp; Motter, Canton architects who designed the combined elementary and junior high building and East Junior High during the $2,725,000 building program, will set up the exhibit, expected to include photographs, drawings and a scale model.

Betts and C. Walter Ashbaugh, board vice president, will attend the convention.

Bateman Resigns Post As Reference Unit Head

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Saying he did not want to put his friends on the spot, Thomas A. Bateman has yielded to administrative pressure and resigned from his $12,000 post as director of the Legislative Reference Bureau. Bateman, former Republican clerk of the Senate, was appointed to the post by former Gov. C. William O'Neill just before he left office. The salary was a $5,000-a-year increase.

Consumer Survey Planned In Area

A survey of consumers who plan to purchase cars, television sets, washing machines and refrigerators will be launched in the East Liverpool - Wellsville district this week by the Bureau of Census, according to Edgar L. Ryan, supervisor of the bureau's regional field office in Pittsburgh.

The survey is being made for the Federal Reserve Board for use in a study of consumer buying trends. Questions will be asked in conjunction with four of the bureau's regular current population surveys which provide monthly figures on employment and unemployment in the nation.

Questions to be asked about the equipment will be relatively simple, the bureau said. They will be asked if the person owns any of the items, when each was purchased, and if they plan to purchase one in the next three or six months.

Concerning autos, information will be obtained not only on ownership and buying plans, but also on methods of financing, outstanding debt on the car and recent repair costs.

Mrs. Goldie Steele of Wellsville is enumerator for the district survey.

Harold Dickey Named Park Chairman Again

Harold Dickey was re-elected chairman of the Chester City Park Commission at a meeting Monday night at the City Hall.

Mrs. Merrill Miller, secretary, and Miss Sara Thomas, treasurer, were returned.

Dickey reported solicitation of funds by mail will get under way next week. Cards will be mailed to residents of the city and adjacent areas with envelopes attached to return contributions for park projects.

John Pinney said the community building under construction at the park is ready for erection of the roof as soon as weather permits.

The next meeting will be Feb. 2.

Teachers Training Set At South Side Schools

Some 40 teachers of the Southern Beaver County Joint Schools will attend an in-service training day Friday at both the elementary school and high school near Hookstown, Victor Thomas Jr., supervising principal, said.

South Side pupils will not attend school that day.

Miss Edna Mae Bruggeman of Pittsburgh, a reading consultant of the Scott-Foresman &amp; Co., will lecture with discussion to follow.

Teachers will be instructed in the use of units in conjunction with the World Book and Encyclopedia by Frank J. Kuzma of Ambridge, a company representative.

Teachers will be served lunch at noon in the high school cafeteria.

Midland's New Gym Is Nearing Completion

Midland Lincoln High School's new gymnasium will be ready for acceptance by the Board of Education in about two weeks, Robert F. Beatty, East Liverpool architect, reported after an inspection Monday afternoon.

He said most of the work is substantially completed except for bleachers and the floor. Only two sections of the bleachers remain to be installed and work is being held up by the lack of six boards which were expected late yesterday afternoon. They should be installed by Wednesday evening.

Work on the floor should then be completed in two weeks.

Marine To Graduate

NEGLEY — Marine Pvt. Larry E. Witman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Witman of Railroad St., is scheduled to graduate Feb. 4 from a four-week basic infantry training course at Camp Lejeune, N. C. After two weeks leave, graduates will be assigned to specialist schools or permanent duty assignments.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the column dealing with Lonely Hearts Clubs and your excellent reply. You told people to beware of them — and why. I've had experience along these lines and I would like to say the only thing wrong with your advice is that it wasn't strong enough.

Three years ago my husband sneaked out on me in the middle of the night. After five months of tracing I finally caught up with him, in Los Angeles. I learned he had his name on one Lonely Hearts Club list and was getting lined up with another. He also enrolled in a dancing school.

I went to the director of the Lonely Hearts Club and introduced myself. The woman seemed shocked and said she was "sorry." I asked how they screen members who wish to be put in touch with prospective mates. She said they take the word of the applicants that they are not married.

She explained they operate on the theory that "most people are honest."

It seems I arrived just in the nick of time because my husband had already made contact with a middle-aged woman who owned property and was crazy about him.

He would have married this woman (though still married to me) on the outside chance that no one would catch up with him.

Please print this letter as an additional nail in the coffin of the unscrupulous and a warning to the unwary. Thank you. —MRS. L.R.M.

Displaced Hubby

Dear Ann Landers: My in-laws have a Mexican Chihuahua who is spoiled beyond the most fantastic stretch of the imagination.

We have had to baby-sit with this mutt because it raises such a fuss that the in-laws are afraid the dog will have a heart attack if left alone.

This miniature tornado has always slept at the foot of my mother-in-law's bed. This is the problem: The folks went away for the winter and we have the dog. The first two nights, he cried and carried on until my wife took him into our bed.

The downstairs neighbors (we live in an apartment) started to knock on our ceiling with a broom handle and I had to give in. When the dog came into the bed I went on the couch.

I told my wife I am not sleeping with any darned dog. She says the dog is clean and that I am being stuffy. She also says we must keep the dog happy until her folks get back because if he should get sick from aggravation they'd never forgive us.

My wife claims you are a reasonable woman and she promised to abide by your decision provided

I state all the facts, which I have done.

Oh yes, one thing more — she said to tell you the dog is too old to retrain.—DISPLACED PERSON.

Dear Displaced: Your wife should sleep on the couch with that spoiled, mosquito-like creature and you should have the bed to yourself.

I confess I feel like a hypocrite giving this advice. We had a Chihuahua and more than once we lost the battle when "Big Shot" cried during a thunderstorm and wanted to sleep at the foot of our bed. But the advice still stands. Right is right.

'Hearts Fantasy' To Be Theme For South Side Fete

The Hookstown Citizens' Association has selected "Fantasy of Hearts" as the theme for a Mardi Gras celebration to be held Saturday, Feb. 7, at the South Side High School at Hookstown.

A king and queen, to be selected by vote of the Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes, will be crowned at 7 p. m. Small floats of district organizations will parade through the gymnasium at 8.

A masquerade ball will be held from 9 to midnight. The Lee Tolsa Variety Quartet of Ambridge will provide the music. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Refreshments will be in charge of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The association will meet Wednesday night at 8 in the high school cafeteria. The Mardi Gras committee will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Mary McCoy of Aliquippa R. D. 1.

3 Become Members Of Chester VFW Post

William Maple, Roy Cashdollar and John Randolph were enrolled as members of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6450 at a meeting Monday night at the Chester home.

Robert Milby, quartermaster, reported 135 members have paid dues for 1959. James Morris, adjutant, announced $3,000 was donated to needy families and organizations of the community last year.

Milby read a letter from officials of the Hancock County Children's Home, thanking the post for Christmas presents to the children. Lunch was served 16 by Willard Enoch and Kenneth Williams.

Earl Pittinger, commander, was in charge. The next meeting will be Feb. 2.

Finlay Retained As President Of Democratic Club

Larry Finlay was returned as president at election of officers held Monday night by the Democrat Club in the Ostrow Building on the Diamond.

Other officers named were James Flasco vice president; Don Hancock, secretary; Herbert Combs, treasurer, and Harold Pete Seever and Floyd Murray, three-year trustees.

Holdover trustees are C. W. Heasley, Robert Owen and Leo Payne.

Plans were completed for the victory dinner to be held Jan. 31 at St. Aloysius Parochial School Auditorium. Rep. Wayne L. Hays and Ohio Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy will be guest speakers.

Two announced plans to seek nomination at the May primary. They are D. C. Fetterolf, 417 Vine St., for councilman-at-large and O. D. Kountz, 1271 Erie St., an East End grocer, for treasurer.

About 80 per cent of the nation's supply of phosphate comes from Florida.

Outstanding Students To Get Awards During Assemblies

Rewarding athletes is traditional, now the "eggheads" in East Liverpool schools are going to come in for their share of honors, according to a plan given formal approval Monday night by the Board of Education.

The plan calls for honor awards to be presented to junior and senior high school pupils for "outstanding academic achievement."

Supt. Ralph W. Betts explained students in the 7th to 12th grades, who earn at least 3 A's and one B in 4 major subjects each semester, will receive certificates at special assemblies in each school.

In the case of some high school students who have five major subjects, at least three A's and two B's will be required, he said.

The purpose of the plan, devised by the secondary principals and the superintendent, is to recognize those with outstanding grades and inspire other students.

The requirements are higher than those necessary to qualify for the National Honor Society, Betts said.

Board members expressed enthusiasm, declaring it should give an added impetus to the good students and inspire those whose grades border just below the requirements and need a little urging to qualify.

They pointed out athletes are awarded letters for their performances but little recognition has been given to the outstanding students except as seniors when the class valedictorian and salutatorian are honored at graduation.

City Eyes Equipment For Cleaning Sewers

The possibility of purchasing sewer cleaning equipment is being considered by Mayor Fred P. Lawrence's administration to eliminate perennial trouble in some of the city's sanitary and storm sewers.

The city probably would prefer to purchase the equipment rather than hire a company to do the work since the charges would be almost as high as the purchase price, the mayor said.

Mayor Lawrence said the administration will continue to investigate the various types available after inspecting one type Saturday at Chester.

Making the inspection with the mayor were Safety-Service Director Dan Maggiani, Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr., George Bloomgren, city engineer, and Floyd Tice, sewer inspector.

Although the Chester equipment is for sale, the city probably won't be interested, the mayor said.

No Coach For Packers When Draft Resumes

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers will be minus a head coach when the National Football League resumes its play-draft in Philadelphia Wednesday.

"We've tried but there is absolutely no chance we'll have a coach by then," Club President Dominic Olejniczak said Monday. He said Chief Scout Jack Vainisi would direct the Green Bay draft.

The search for a coach began Dec. 17 when Ray (Scooter) McLean resigned after the Packers wound up their worst season in 40 years with one victory and a tie amid 10 losses.

Fall Injures Woman; Phone Employee Hurt

A city woman, injured in a fall on ice, was admitted Monday to City Hospital where a Salineville telephone firm employee was treated after a work mishap yesterday.

Mrs. Mary Deshler of Chestnut St. is in "fairly good" condition with a fractured wrist suffered in a fall on ice yesterday afternoon.

Thomas Green, 23, of Lincoln St., Salineville, suffered a possible fracture of a bone in the right foot in a fall while at work in the Knoxville area for the General Telephone Co.

Smart looking? You bet! And comfortable, too!

Sure, styling is important in a new car. You expect a new car to be sleek and smart — but not at the expense of comfort.

Yet in trying to design a car as low and modern looking as the Swept-Wing Dodge, some '59 cars have practically designed out the people. Not Dodge. It's designed around you. It's easier to get into (no protruding door posts), easier to get out of (no high door sills to trip over), more comfortable to sit in (there's room to spare). All this and Swivel Seats, too!

City Proposes Bridge Tolls

$1 Million Needed For City's Freeway

a suggestion that local traffic be permitted to use cut-rate bridge tickets—as it did under both state and private ownership—while itinerant traffic would pay cash tolls, the mayor said.

The mayor indicated that spokesmen for the Highway Department and the Bridge Commission already have been sounded out informally on the proposal and that they indicated "that restoration of tolls to raise all of the city's share of the freeway cost might be considered favorably if a proper study disclosed that such action would be generally in the public interest."

The "origin and destination" traffic count is part of the "proper study" that the officials mentioned, Mayor Lawrence indicated.

Although present plans call for the first stage of the freeway to be built from the city limits in California Hollow to W. 3rd and Monroe Sts., restoration of the tolls might mean that the first project would be extended all the way to the Chester Bridge, the mayor said.

When the freeway first was proposed in 1955, its total cost was estimated at $10 million and the city's share was fixed at roughly $1 million. However, rising costs and changes in plans required by new federal and state specifications mean that the estimates will have to be revised upward sharply, the mayor said.

Estimates have placed the overall cost of the first stage at $2.5 million and the city's share at $250,000, but those figures also are subject to upward revision, the mayor said.

The text of the mayor's memorandum follows:

"While the freeway is still in the design stage, we have been endeavoring to explore all possible ways in which the city's share of its cost might be financed to best advantage and with the least burden on the city's operating income and the city's bonded debt structure.

"I understand that probably as far back as when the freeway was first proposed, the suggestion had been made that the freeway might be made to help carry part of its own cost by restoring tolls temporarily on the Chester Bridge. As you know, the general plan ties the freeway into that bridge both from East End and from West End. The suggestion apparently was based largely on the assumption that much of the through traffic using the freeway will cross the bridge; hence, restoration of tolls with specially low rates for local users would result in the lion's share being borne by through traffic.

"I would like to emphasize here that no decision has yet been made to restore tolls on the bridge. In fact, no recommendation that tolls be restored has been made. Since we are looking into all possible means of raising the city's share of the freeway cost, this bridge toll suggestion should be thoroughly explored, too.

"The Chester Bridge now is under the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department. If tolls were to be restored, it is our understanding that the bridge would temporarily revert to the State Bridge Commission's jurisdiction.

"Informal conversation with some members of the Highway Department and with some members of the State Bridge Commission indicates that restoration of tolls to raise all of the city's share of the freeway cost might be considered favorably if a proper study disclosed that such action would be generally in the public interest."

"However, some highly essential information not presently available must be obtained before either of these state agencies or the city can arrive at conclusions and recommendations.

"For example, an up-to-date origin and destination traffic count must be made at the earliest possible date at the East Liverpool end of the Chester Bridge. If such a traffic count indicates that further consideration of the proposal is worthwhile, the State Bridge Commission probably would hold a public hearing here in East Liverpool and solicit expressions of opinion from the public.

"If such a public hearing disclosed public favor of the proposal and all other studies indicated that restoration of some rates of toll would be feasible and in the public interest, then appropriate legislation would be introduced before the Ohio State Legislature authorizing transfer of the bridge to the State Bridge Commission for this purpose.

"The deadline for the introduction of such a bill is March 5. If it is not introduced by that date, it is my understanding that it might be two years before the subject could come before the Legislature. This would be too late, if we should decide that we want to finance the city's share of the freeway cost this way.

"Here I would like to make clear that in the event that tolls were restored to cover the city's share of the freeway cost, it would be our objective that this should include the city's share of the entire freeway from the west side of the city all the way to the Pennsylvania line and we would want it understood that tolls would be stopped as soon as the city's share of the freeway cost had been raised after deducting costs of operation.

"Because final plans for Stage No. 1 on the freeway have not yet been completed and approved, no firm cost figure is available yet. However, it can be safely assumed that the cost—hence the city's share of the cost—will be considerably higher than the preliminary estimates made several years ago for the following reasons:

"a. The original rough plan made several years ago contemplated that the freeway would start four-tenths of a mile inside the city limits on the west side of town. The state's later plans for rebuilding Route 30 and the River-to-Lake Highway up to the city limits has since made it necessary to extend the freeway that four-tenths of a mile, all the way to the city limits.

"b. Both state and federal highway specifications now insist upon much wider construction, much more gradual curves and inclines than were required several years ago. These new state and federal requirements add greatly to the safety and capacity of the freeway, but they also add greatly to its cost.

"c. Expected traffic loads for the freeway have soared beyond the original estimates both because of the unexpected growth of traffic generally throughout the state and because the improvement of Routes 30 and 7 and the addition of the River-to-Lake Highway will bring far more traffic through East Liverpool than was anticipated originally. This extra traffic load requires that the freeway be designed with greater capacity.

"d. Construction costs have gone up considerably since the original survey was made.

"Consequently, without knowing what the final cost of the freeway will be, it is obvious that raising the money to cover the city's share—which will be approximately 9 per cent of the total cost—will present a serious problem. It is, therefore, imperative that all possible ways of financing the city's share must be studied carefully. The temporary restoration of tolls on the Chester Bridge might prove to be worthwhile.

"We are, therefore, anxious to proceed as quickly as possible with a study of the bridge toll suggestion. The Michael Baker Jr. engineering firm that is designing Stage No. 1 of the freeway can make the requested traffic count at the bridge for $2,500. We especially request that the legislation already passed by City Council authorizing extension of the freeway the last four-tenths of a mile to the city limits be amended to permit and cover the cost of this traffic count.

"Because the State Legislature's March 5 deadline must be met in case the city does decide to request restoration of tolls, your favorable action on this proposal at the earliest possible date is respectfully urged."

The mayor commented that such a traffic count normally would cost $6,000 to $10,000, "but we persuaded them to give us a rock-bottom price."

He said he is not certain the State Bridge Commission would insist on a public hearing before acting on the toll request. However, if a bill to restore tolls is introduced in the Legislature, then the state decides against the move, the bill could be withdrawn, the mayor said.

He told Council that the freeway is "important to the city's future because it will relieve traffic congestion in the center of the business district and it will make the general area more attractive to industry."

'Hot' Clothing Causes Alarm

Warning Issued On Garments In Dryer

Housewives were cautioned to use care in removing clothes from automatic dryers after firemen made a double visit to a home Monday on a smoke investigation which finally revealed some garments taken from a dryer had started to smoulder.

Firemen received the first call at 11:15 a. m. yesterday to the home of George Reese, 167 Pennsylvania Ave. Despite the smell of smoke, firemen said they were unable to locate the source. Believing a motor might have overheated, firemen disconnected a refrigerator.

Another call was received at 1:30 p. m. and the smoke odor was even more noticeable and firemen said they went over the house with a fine tooth comb.

They finally found some garments in a bundle of clothing taken from a dryer had started to smoulder. Firemen said the real cause of the smouldering hasn't been determined but indicated the heat in the dryer was too intense for the material.

Firemen suggested housewives shake out the articles individually to allow them time to cool.

The department also answered two other calls Monday. One was to the home of Mrs. Nan Barrett, 237 W. 7th St., to rescue a cat frightened into a tree by dogs. Firemen went to the Baum St. apartments at 10:20 p. m. to disconnect a defective pump motor.

Road Treatment To Be Determined

Residents of a section of Calcutta Acres are to be advised whether a road there will be given oil treatment or blade mix this summer under the blacktop program.

St. Clair Township trustees Monday night advised a delegation from the area the county engineer would be consulted on which treatment is due the surface of Meadowbrook Circle and a street connecting Louise St. with Smiths Ferry Rd.

Residents paid to have an oil and slag covering two years ago, and last year the county applied the first blacktop coat. The county is to advise the residents if an oil mix covering will be placed this summer, depending on whether the original covering counts in the 5-year program.

Residents of 3rd and Cornell Sts. in Glenmore turned in money for a second oil treatment on the road there. Routine business completed the meeting. The trustees will meet again Monday.

3 Sought In Mutilation Of Steubenville Man

STUEBENVILLE — Police today still were searching for three men allegedly involved in the mysterious mutilation of a 42-year-old dairy farm hand performed before his common-law wife near midnight Saturday in their home at Richmond, near here.

Authorities are holding Lawrence F. Balser, 54, of Canton on an assault charge in connection with the mutilation of Stanley Harmon. He has denied the charge.

Harmon was listed in "fairly good" condition today at the Ohio Valley General Hospital in Steubenville after he was allegedly attacked by four men who invaded his home, bound him up then roused his wife, Lena, from her bed to watch them cut him.

First Voting On Bills Slated In Legislature

CHARLESTON (AP) — The 1959 Legislature's first passage votes on bills will, if all goes on schedule, take place in the House Thursday.

Three bills reported from the House Judiciary Committee yesterday were the first to come out of committee at this session. They were up for routine first reading in the House today.

Ordinary procedure would have the bills at amendment stage tomorrow and up for passage votes Thursday.

Under one of the bills, West Virginia's primary elections would be held on the second Tuesday in May every two years. Under present law, primaries are held in May in presidential election years but in August in the off-years.

Another bill in the trio would require a member or officer of a political party executive committee to resign before becoming a candidate for any other office.

Five bills reported to the floor today by Senate Judiciary — the first bills out of committee on the Senate side — will be one day behind the House schedule. Usual procedure would bring them up to passage level Friday, assuming there is a Friday session.

One of the bills would somewhat lighten the Public Service Commission's work load. It would empower the PSC to waive hearing on applications for contract trucker permits which are not contested.

Both houses met at 2 p. m. today. There was little on their calendars to keep them in session long. Following a similar caucus of House Democrats yesterday, the Senate Democratic majority scheduled a caucus after adjournment today.

38 Begin Night Class At Wellsville School

Thirty-eight — a full class — started the adult night course in typing Monday at Wellsville High School.

John Polesky, commercial department head, was in charge.

Supt. S. E. Daw said about the same number have signed for a class in shorthand. No teacher has been obtained but Daw said he is contacting instructors.

The fee is $3 for each 10-week course. Others may still sign for classes but will not enter unless someone drops out.

Damascus Man Fined

LISBON — Charles R. McPherson, 51 of Damascus was fined $20 and costs Monday by Mayor John Todd on a State Highway Patrol charge of passing on the crest of a hill. William Stahl, 37, of Cleveland forfeited $15 bond on a charge of following too closely, preferred by village police.

Outside Fire Fee To Be Set

Palestine To Figure Charge To Township

EAST PALESTINE — City officials are to estimate the minimum guarantee for fire protection by the city department for Unity Township at the request of Township trustees, who are considering a levy to pay for the protection.

Discussion of the proposed estimate was held at a meeting of Council Monday night. The finance and safety committees are to meet with Fire Chief Glenn Libert to estimate the annual cost.

The township trustees have requested the estimate as a preliminary for determining the size of the levy, which might be submitted in the May primary, a spokesman said.

The city recently increased the cost of a fire call to an out-of-town residence from $200 to $300.

In other action, Council authorized the legislative committee to restudy a city part-time parking ban—from 2 to 6 a. m. on all streets—whose recent enforcement has resulted in protests from residents.

Police, at the request of Council for stricter enforcement of the regulation, ticketed 80 cars in the past two weeks. Council last night ordered citations to be made at the discretion of the patrolmen pending further study of the ban.

Salem Players Club Buys Little Theater

The Salem Players Club has purchased a barn on Route 165, along with 275 seats and other fixtures, from the Youngstown Players, towards establishing a permanent theater.

Committees have chosen five plays and anyone interested in any phase of community theater work is invited to attend meetings held in the Salem Memorial Building on the second and fourth Tuesday at 8 p. m. The next meeting will be Jan. 27.

Anyone desiring information may contact William Weir at the Weir Wallpaper Store in Salem.

State Court Refuses Hancock Man's Appeal

The West Virginia Supreme Court unanimously refused today an appeal sought by Wayne Keifer of New Cumberland, from a Hancock County order setting aside a verdict in his favor in a traffic accident suit.

The lower court awarded the plaintiff, Clarence Pearl of Chester, a new trial in the $2,500 action, after it had set aside a jury verdict returned in favor of Keifer.

561 Batista Followers In Cuban Prison

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Jammed into a prison normally housing 150 inmates are 561 followers of ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista awaiting trial on "war criminal" charges.

Some probably will go free. Others will die before Fidel Castro's firing squads.

The prison is inside La Cabana Fortress on a hill overlooking Havana, not far from historic Morro Castle.

The prisoners — Batista police, military men and informers — are housed in large cells with interiors like Quonset huts. Armed guards patrol the 20-foot walls.

Escorted by two unarmed guards, our party of U.S. newsmen was given an unhindered visit to the cells.

The prisoners were reluctant to talk.

Finally one young prisoner said he would speak English "because what I say now the guards may take back to the prison director."

The English-speaking prisoner identified himself as Evelio Gil, 23, Havana-born military college cadet who joined Batista's police two years ago.

"The only crime I committed was to arrest some rebels," he said. "I struck or hurt no one."

Another prisoner, former policeman Hector Figueroa, 29, claimed all he had done was "to arrest those who were putting bombs in theaters and other public places."

"Those arrested had court hearings, even defense counsel," Figueroa said. "On the other hand, the rebel tribunals are all made up of rebels. This is Russian-type justice."

Snow, Rain Mixture Due

Drizzle Wednesday Will Create Slush

A mixture of snow with rain is forecast for the Ohio Valley tonight, with expectations it will be slippery going for both pedestrians and motorists.

A light snow this morning created new hazardous highway conditions and road crews resumed churning.

Area roads were reported snow covered and slippery this morning by the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Nearly an inch of snow fell Monday, resulting in the early dismissal of a number of rural schools because of road conditions.

Three county schools, which dismissed early Monday because snow made roads hazardous, resumed classes today. Fairfield-Waterford schools suspended classes in the forenoon and Southern Local and United Local Schools let students go home earlier in the afternoon because of the weather.

County highways were slippery in places, but all were open today John (Dick) Neill, county highway supervisor, reported. Crews are plowing and ashing where necessary, he said.

Nearly 8 inches of snow has fallen since last week's storm but Dam 8 said the accumulation on the ground has dwindled to about 4½ inches.

Light snow was forecast for this afternoon before mounting temperatures produce conditions for rain, and more rain, probably a drizzle, is forecast for Wednesday. This will create ankle-deep slush on city streets but the mild temperatures expected through tomorrow should hasten melting.

Dam 8 said it recorded 0.08 inch of melted snow from yesterday's fall. The light snow this morning measured about half an inch.

The Weather Bureau said a cold front that moved over Ohio Monday stopped as it reached central Kentucky during the night and started moving back toward Ohio early today. The result was widespread snow and rain.

Rain covered the entire area along the Ohio River from Cincinnati to Marietta and Bellaire, and north to Zanesville. The snow covered the central counties and was spreading northeast, sometimes with rain alternating with snow.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Jack Benny Writes For Marie Torre

Because Miss Torre refused to reveal the source of a news item that appeared in her column, she was sentenced to 10 days in jail. While she was away, her friends in television wrote guest columns. Here is another.

When Marie Torre asked me to do a guest column for her, I rushed right to the typewriter to do the piece. As I sat poised, with my fingers on the keys, I suddenly realized I had reached my first hurdle. I couldn't type.

So I quickly took pen in hand to write the column, but then I remembered I wasn't a writer either. As the late, great Fred Allen once said about me, "Benny couldn't ad lib a burp after a Hungarian dinner."

UNDAUNTED, I rushed to my writers and asked them if they would write the column for me. There was a hushed silence for a moment and then one of the boys pulled out his contract, which he always keeps on hand for such emergencies.

There in fine print he unearthed a clause that limited their duties to writing my program and mowing my lawn.

I pleaded with them to ignore the clause, but they insisted that if they were to write a column, I would have to pay them their weekly salaries. Now I like Marie Torre — but not $200 worth.

After I fired my lawyer, I thought it over and decided that just because I'm a comedian, it doesn't mean I have to be funny all the time. Why not write a straight, informative column on interviews with people on the subject of television?

The first question I posed was, "What's wrong with television?" I stopped a man on the street with the question and within five minutes I had enough for a novelette.

SO I DROPPED that subject and asked the next person I met, "What's right with television?" It became a little embarrassing because all I heard were raves for the Jack Benny show.

I decided not to use this observation because it would sound too conceited coming from me, especially since the person I was talking to was my press agent.

Since I couldn't think of any more questions, it seemed more convenient to drop the whole interview idea and instead answer the questions asked of me by my fans.

The most frequent question is, "Are you really 39?" The answer is, "Yes."

Last year I pulled a hoax on the American public and celebrated my 40th birthday, but this was because CBS offered to throw a big party for me at their expense.

Mary thought it was just awful of me to accept all the presents I was given on this phony birthday and insisted I return them. I agreed with her and took them all back to the stores and got the money back.

EVERYONE WANTS to know if I have my own hair or wear a toupee. I must confess that I have as much, if not more, hair than Yul Brynner.

Many people inquire if my eyes are blue. If anyone is interested, my eyes are blue but the stomach of a dachshund running through a huckleberry patch.

Everyone wants to know if I really own a Maxwell. The answer is "Not at this time, but I will own one after I make two more payments. I'll be the only one who ever got his car owner certificate and 400,000-mile checkup at the same time."

Many people are curious to know if I really have a vault 200 feet down in my cellar. Doesn't everybody?

Others ask if it is true that Brigitte Bardot is infatuated with me. Being a gentleman, I feel it only right that the announcement come from her.

And lastly, there has been a lot of talk as to whether or not I'm cheap. You can find out by asking Marie Torre after she gets my bill for writing this column.

Home Farm Given $5,000 Milk Machine

Johnstown Donor's Equipment Installed At Pughtown Barn

Milking machine equipment valued at $5,000, the gift of a Johnstown (Pa.) steel industrialist, has been installed at the farm of the Hancock County Children's Home near Pughtown, it was reported when the Board of Trustees met Monday night in New Cumberland.

The electric equipment was given to the home last year by Albert Swank, president of the Albert Swank Co., but was not installed until recently because facilities were not available, the board reported.

The new equipment enables the farm supervisor to milk cows more rapidly in a renovated barn. The 24 head of stock at the farm includes 6 milk cows, according to the Board. Swank is president of the firm that makes sleeves for hot metal ladles.

In other business, the Board heard reports that red and white exit signs had been displayed in the proper places in the home on Route 2 in compliance with orders of the state fire marshal. Trustees also voted to purchase 200 locust posts for repairing fences, and to investigate possibilities of having a new electric meter installed at the home as the new milking equipment will make a heavier load on the circuit.

Cyrus Spear, executive secretary, said that the home's living-room furniture, purchased some time ago at a cost of $1,650, is being recovered and upholstered by the Modern Upholstery Co., of Steubenville at a cost of $585.

Spear also reported that letters of thanks had been sent to district organizations which donated Christmas presents to the children during the holidays.

The meeting marked the first for the new chairman of the board, Dave N. Thomas, Butler District commissioner. He succeeded Grant District Commissioner William C. Graham. The next meeting will probably be Feb. 16.

Midland Girl Scout Unit Will Induct Officers

Mrs. George Hamilton of Ohio View will be installed as chairman of the Midland District Girl Scouts at a meeting in the high school forum tonight at 7:30. Mrs. Matt Ordich is the retiring chairman.

Mrs. Richard Carr, field director, will install officers.

Neighborhood chairmen to be seated include, Mrs. Harry Young, Midland Heights; Mrs. Woodrow Smith, Ohio Township; Mrs. Stephen Hazy, Ohio View, and Mrs. Sam Zupple, Midland. Mrs. Charles McNeill is secretary.

Mrs. George Mastrovich, Juliette Low tea chairman, Mrs. John Petchel, cookie sale chairman and Mrs. John J. Tippet, Day Camp chairman, will also be inducted.

Following the installation, registered adult scouts will participate in games and a songfest. Refreshments will be served.

2 Wellsville District Homes Hit By Burglars

Two Wellsville district homes were the target of burglars over the weekend, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan, who is investigating.

Two ruby rings and a watch, along with $1.55 in change, comprised the loot at the home of Harold Leatherberry of Fife Rd., and Lloyd Close of Hartford Rd., reported a watch stolen from his home. Both are on Wellsville R. D. 1.

Garner S. Campbell of Franklin Square said his car, parked near his home, was jacked up and two tires, with tubes and rims, were removed.

Savings Head Retained

EAST PALESTINE—Hugh Glecker, president of the East Palestine Savings & Loan Association, was re-elected at a meeting of directors Monday. R. D. McCommon was named vice president, Robert Smith, secretary, and Mrs. Edna Seidel, treasurer.

New Water Tank Tested

Midland Will Check Project For Leaks

Dr. Zavel Sigal, chairman of the Midland Municipal Authority, announced today that the new 8th St. water tank is being filled to be checked for leaks.

About 20 feet of water was pumped in by Monday afternoon and no leaks were found. The filling began last Friday. Only about 10 feet remains to be filled.

Water from the filtration plant, which is being used, will be tested for purity when the tank is filled by Don Duke, East Liverpool city chemist. A vacuum test for base leaks proved satisfactory Friday.

If checks of the tanks and the water tests prove satisfactory, then residents may receive water from the 500,000-gallon tank by Friday. Residents water needs are being provided for in the meanwhile by the Murphy Hill tank.

Painting of the new tank will begin as soon as weather permits, Sigal said. He said the authority is satisfied with progress on the speedy installation of the tank.

Work on the new water lines has been slowed due to the weather but is progressing satisfactorily, he said.

The new improvements will give Midland an above-standard water system with equal pressure throughout the borough, he said.

Lisbon Motorist Fined

LISBON — Leonard McDaniel, 29, of R. D. 4 was fined $10 and costs Monday afternoon by County Judge James L. MacDonald on a charge of passing on a curve. He was cited by village police.

County Has 69 On Probation

49 Are Residents, 9 In Ohio, 5 Outside

LISBON—The Columbiana County Adult Probation Department said today a total of 69 persons are currently on probation.

Richard V. Rose of Lisbon, adult probation officer, said in his 1958 report these include 49 residing in county, 9 elsewhere in Ohio and 5 outside the state. Six are being supervised by probation departments of other counties.

In addition, there are two supervised by him for the County Juvenile Court, two being supervised for other probation departments and two active cases whose whereabouts are unknown, with one case in a veteran's administration mental hospital.

Fourteen cases were terminated and civil rights restored to the defendants. The court ordered 52 investigations for probation, of which 41 have been completed, with 11 still underway.

Thirty cases were granted probation with 11 cases pending hearings.

Rose said 10 were cited during the year for probation violation and 7 of these were sentenced.

Costs were paid in full for 42 cases. A total of $1,099.80 was collected and $1,815.85 still is due for active cases.

A total of 176 divorce cases was assigned by the department for investigation.

Steubenville Autoist Unhurt As Car Wrecks

Daniel Raeburn, 51, of Steubenville escaped injury when his car crashed into a guardrail on Route 7 about a mile north of Stratton Monday afternoon at 2:50.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said Raeburn lost control, skidded left of center, went off the road and into the guardrail. Extensive damage resulted to the car.

Officers reported a rash of accidents during the snowfall yesterday.

DiSalle To Seek Loan On Jobless Pay Extension

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle says he is going to try to get a federal loan—the kind offered all states last year—to finance an increase in the length of time jobless pay benefits can be received.

The Republican Legislature increased the benefit period from 26 to 39 weeks, but it refused to accept the federal loan to finance the increase.

Former Gov. C. William O'Neill contended at the time that the state should proceed on a pay-as-you-go basis. DiSalle contends that this procedure jeopardized the jobless pay fund which he says has shrunk from a high of 619 million dollars at the end of 1957 to less than 400 million.

"If we're not too late, I'm certainly going to try to get it (the loan)," DiSalle said.

DiSalle said the state's refusal to accept the loan would place Ohio employers in a bad competitive position when the Ohio rate has to be raised because of the drain on the jobless pay fund. James Tichenor, Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation administrator, said the increased benefit period cost the state 39 million dollars.

At the present rate of payment, he said, the fund could be exhausted in 18 months, unless the employers' contribution is doubled.

Calcutta Firemen Will Host Group

Calcutta volunteer firemen will be host to the Tri-State Firemen's Association for a meeting Thursday night at 8 in their new fire station, it was announced at a meeting Monday night in Calcutta.

Fourteen firemen attended and Norman Neal, president, presided. The meeting of the Tri-State group will be the first in the new Calcutta fire station recently completed. About 70 are expected to attend. Devine Banks of Glenmoor is president.

Firemen announced they will insulate the ceiling of the station this week to help conserve heat. Tile flooring has been installed in a kitchen of the station, and plans are under way to have electric and gas facilities completed. It is a project of the auxiliary.

The auxiliary sponsors Teen-Timer dances Friday nights from 7 to 11 in the fire hall to help provide funds for the kitchen project. Firemen sponsor a round and square dance every Saturday night from 9 to midnight in the station. The next meeting will be Monday night at 8.

Purdue University furnishes specialists say that uneven colors in a room are attractive. But, mix the colors to avoid the half and half look.

Midland-Hopewell Battle Features 12-Game Card Tonight

W. Alexander Calls Off Tilt At South Side

The weatherman already has forced postponement of one district game, but if he doesn't interfere further, 12 other contests will be played tonight.

West Alexander has postponed its game with South Side. Schools

South Side at Hickory

Saturday

Steubenville Central at East Liverpool

were closed Monday at West Alexander. The game was scheduled for the South Side gym.

The top attraction tonight is the Midland-Hopewell battle. Coach George Hamilton's cagers, fresh from their lopsided victory over East Liverpool, jump into the Section 8 fire again tonight when they meet the league-leading Hopewell five at Hopewell.

Hopewell has swept through five straight Section 8 opponents, while Midland is tied in second place with New Brighton. Both have 3-1 marks in WPIAL play.

A victory tonight for Midland would move the Leopards within a half game of the lead.

Another top game in the district tonight pits Follansbee at Chester.

Coach Max Tuttle's Panthers split in two games last week, defeating Beaver Local, but losing a tough one at Toronto, and will be after their eighth win against three defeats.

Newell, still looking for its first victory of the campaign, visits Beaver Local tonight. The Beavers, with a 4-3 mark, already own an 82-50 win over Newell.

In other contests tonight, Conotton Valley visits Salineville (3-7) and New Cumberland (4-6) hosts West Liberty.

The highly-lyed United Golden Eagles face a supreme test at Carrollton. United will be shooting for its 10th win in 11 starts.

Three Tri-County battles also are on the card. Lisbon (3-4) is at home against Poland, Louisville visits Columbiana (3-5) and East Palestine (3-5) travels to Leetonia (3-5).

Salem will be seeking its 10th victory in 11 games against Youngstown Rayen on the Quakers' floor.

Fairfield-Waterford (6-4) plays at North Lima and Irontdale (6-4) travels down the river to Brilliant.

Eleven games, featured by the Wellsville-Salem battle, are set for Friday night. East Liverpool will not return to action until Saturday night when it meets Steubenville Catholic Central at Memorial Auditorium.

FIGHT RESULTS

By The Associated Press
New York — Benny (Kid) Paré, 155, Cuba, outpointed Victor (Bul) Zalazar, 158½, Argentina, 10.
Toledo, Ohio — Wilf Greaves, 160, Edmonton, Canada, stopped Henry Bronko, 159, Jackson, Mich, 3.

Sydney, Australia — Clive Stewart, 161¼, Australia, outpointed Jimmy Martinez, 157, Phoenix, Ariz., 12.

Baltimore — Boom-Boom Lester, 180, Bel Air, Md., outpointed Bert Whitehurst, 194, New York, 12.

Manila — Bonnie Espinosa, 131¼, Philippines, outpointed Tommy Romulo, 131¼, Philippines, 12.

Providence, R. I. — Willie Greene, 152, Providence, knocked out Henry Jones, 159, New York, 2.

Chicago — Jerry Jordan, 148, Chicago, outpointed Lee Rossano, 142, Indianapolis, 8.

16, Even 17-Foot Vault

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Take it from a man who knows: The 16-foot vault and perhaps even the 17-foot vault will be common in a few years because of springer poles.

The Rev. Bob Richards, retired U.S. Olympic pole vault champion, said vaults of 16 feet would have been achieved much sooner if modern poles were available.

"They used to vault with bamboo poles," he told a church group. "Now they've got aluminum and spun glass which are a lot more limber. When poles like that become popular, everybody will go 16 feet, maybe even 17."

EAST LIVERPOOL REVIEW

THOUGH BASKETBALL always looks easy, you really can't play it in a horizontal position, but Ohio State's Joe Roberts (14) seems to be trying. He was knocked to the floor Monday night at East Lansing and Joe tried to pass the ball from his "relaxed" position despite efforts of Michigan State's Art Gowens (kneeling) to stop him. Apparently amazed at the new playing style are Ohio State's Larry Siegfried (21) and Michigan's John Green (24) and Bob Andreegg (23). Michigan State won 92-77. (UPI Telephoto)

Pro All-Stars Clash Friday

DETROIT (AP) — The 20 greatest stars in professional basketball will compete Friday night at Detroit's Olympia Stadium in the annual All-Star game.

Before the mid-winter classic begins, the league's board of governors will meet Thursday to consider league problems.

The race problem came up last weekend when rookie Elgin Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers said he and two other Lakers were refused accommodations at a hotel in Charleston, W. Va. Baylor refused to play in the game.

The board of governors will set dates for its draft meeting, and select dates and a site for the NBA's annual meeting, and also will complete playoff plans.

Proposed rule changes and the question of expanding the league to 10 or more teams also will be discussed.

In the All-Star game, stars of the Eastern Division will be after their seventh victory against two losses.

Roy Campanella Involved In 2nd Traffic Accident

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — "I don't know what else could happen to me."

That was Roy Campanella's reaction today to his close brush with serious injury in a second automobile accident.

Campanella, ex-Los Angeles Dodgers' catcher, who was paralyzed from the waist down in an auto accident a year ago, was involved in another crash Monday.

Campanella was being driven from Manhattan where he had made a recorded broadcast, to his home when an air compressor tied to a trailer on a truck traveling toward the city broke loose and then bounced into Campanella's car.

"I thank the good Lord I was wearing my neck brace and safety belt," said Campy. "They saved me from going through the windshield."

Campanella refused medical aid and was driven home by a passing motorist. His driver, James Williamson, suffered a leg injury and was held at a hospital for treatment. Campanella's mother-in-law, Mrs. Fanny McNelly, was treated at a hospital for a minor head injury and released.

Collegians Seek Games

The Canton "Lee Stockton Collegians" basketball team, now in their 13th season, are seeking road games with topnotch clubs. A ny squad in the district interested should contact Bud Tournoux, 708 Rainbow Dr., Louisville or phone Louisville TR. 5-8289.

The 1958-59 Geneva College basketball team includes two "dads". Capt. Don Schena of Wampum is the father of a little year - old daughter, Kim, and Sonny Gardner of Ellwood City is papa to a month - old boy, Robert.

Both Have 9-1 Marks

United, Salem Continue To Pace District Teams

Two of Columbiana County's most powerful cage outfits—Class AA Salem and Class A United Local — and Midland High's Leopards continue to dominate action among the district's 17 schools.

Both United and Salem — listed among Ohio's top 10 squads this week in the Associated Press sportswriters poll — have matching 9-1 records. Midland (11-3) is ranked in second place in the Section 8 WPIAL standings behind Hopewell, unbeaten in the loop with a 5-0 mark.

Outside of Chester (7-3), most of the other district clubs show unimpressive records thus far. Behind the four top teams, only Irontdale and Fairfield-Waterford (both 6-4) and Wellsville (5-4) have played better than .500 ball.

South Side has a 7-7 mark, while the remaining nine teams are far off the pace. Newell is the lone squad yet to post the season's first victory with nine straight defeats leaving the Vikings on the bottom of the district list.

East Liverpool, finding opponents tougher each week, has lost the most games of any district squad. The Potters are 1-10 for the year and have dropped the last seven in a row.

Wellsville's Dan Baldwin continues to lead the area's top point producers with 239 in nine games for a flashy average of 26.5. His 48-point outburst against winless Newell last week boosted his average above the 25-point mark for the first time this year.

Irontdale's Don Fraley, only 5-8, shows a 20.3 point average, with

Over Pension Plan

Players Threaten Strike In International League

NEW YORK (AP) — Organized baseball today was faced with its first serious strike threat in more than a decade.

The dispute between the International League Baseball Players' Assn., and the league over a proposed pension plan appeared to have reached an impasse with the Players Association ordering its 160 members not to sign their contracts and not to report for spring training, the league refusing to budge on its stand and baseball Commissioner Ford Frick standing warily on the sidelines.

Here are the feelings of the disputants:
Bob Chakales, Richmond pitcher, and one of the player representatives—"Unless the league grants us a pension or the officials sit down with us for a discussion with honest intention, we're going to stand pat and go through with our plan (to strike)."
Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy, International League president—"Our biggest problem is one of money. We just don't have it and are in no way able to finance any kind of pension plan. If they think they can budge us, they're wrong. We'll stand pat."

Commissioner Frick—"I have never been asked to sit in on a conversation and I have never been asked about the rule. There is really nothing for me to say about this. It's a matter between the players and the clubs."
The International League Players' Assn., claims it represents 98 per cent of the players in the league. Chakales and Toronto pitcher Eddie Blake, the other representative, said the strike resolution was adopted last Oct. 15.

The players estimated that a fund somewhat similar to the big league plan, would cost about $293,000. They said they would be willing to contribute about $37,000 and that when they are 50, they would draw $59 a month. Only those who played five years would be eligible.

leader North Carolina State. That overtime success pushed North Carolina (10-1) from third to second, pulled Kansas State (13-1) up from fourth to third and plunked N. C. State (12-2) to fourth.

The rest of the top 10 lists Auburn (11-0), Cincinnati (10-2), St. John's (NY) (11-4), Michigan State (8-2), Bradley (11-2) and West Virginia (13-3) in that order. Balloting and records are based on games through last Saturday.

Kentucky's margin over North Carolina in the voting of 114 sports writers and broadcasters was a scant 11 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc. The Wildcats received 38 first place votes, just five more than the Tar Heels.

March 20-21 Set For Ohio Cage Tourney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio High School Athletic Assn. has announced that the state basketball tournament will be held in St. John Arena at Ohio State University March 20 and 21.

The association's board, at a meeting Monday night, said a season ticket will be good for all four sessions of the big tournament, and announced this schedule:

1. Friday afternoon, March 20, two Class A games.
2. Friday evening, two Class AA games.
3. Saturday afternoon, March 21, the Class A final.
4. Saturday evening, the Class AA final.

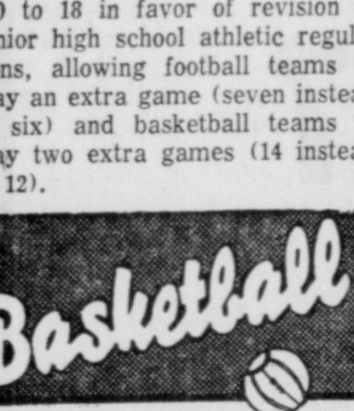

The board said approximately 1,600 season tickets will be available for the general public, through purchase by mail only at the rate of $6 per season ticket covering all four sessions.

No consideration is to be given ticket orders postmarked prior to Feb. 14, or for orders for more than two tickets in any one envelope. No consideration is to be given orders for anything other than season tickets until after the public drawing for tickets Feb. 26.

All ticket requests must be addressed to the Ohio High School Athletic Assn., 4161 N. High St., Columbus 14, Ohio, and include full payment. A self-addressed, stamped return envelope also must be enclosed.

In other actions, the board counted referendum ballots on two matters. It announced that association members voted 546 to 56 for a proposal which prohibits football scrimmages or practice sessions involving students of other schools prior to Aug. 26.

Association members also voted 350 to 18 in favor of revision of junior high school athletic regulations, allowing football teams to play an extra game (seven instead of six) and basketball teams to play two extra games (14 instead of 12).

East Tech Still No. 1

Salem, United Maintain High Spots In Ohio Poll

By FRITZ HOWELL

Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland East Tech and Northwestern of Wayne County topped Ohio's high school basketball teams today in the weekly Associated Press poll, but little Buckland of Auglaize County nudged in for a share of the spotlight.

While everyone else is bragging about long winning streaks and championship aspirations, the little village of 274 is doing it in reverse.

Buckland was tramped 89-46 by Minster Friday night, extending the loser's string of defeats to an even 40. Buckland hasn't won a game since 1956, and has an 0-13 record for the year.

The losing record is just the opposite of that boasted by Class A champion Northwestern, which has piled up more than that many victories in a stretch, including 14 this season.

Forty-nine sports writers for Associated Press newspapers and radio-television stations participated in this week's statewide rating—and they piled up huge majorities for the defending kings.

East Tech grabbed 23 first place votes and 385 poll points in the 10-9-8-etc ballot basis. Elyria holds second in Class AAA with 265. Northwestern got ten of the top nods in Class A, along with 231 poll points. Geneva Spencer and Norwalk St. Paul were deadlocked for second with 95, with Newark Central Catholic only two points further back.

Hamilton lost to Middletown, and Toledo Scott to Toledo Central last week, the losers surrendering their "top 10" berths to Fostoria and Chillicothe. Salem Local and Lynwood-Jacksontown skidded from the Class A elite list, with Darby Twp. and Convoy Union moving in.

Hiland of Holmes County has 11 lettermen. The school, in its first year, is a consolidation of Walnut Creek and Berlin. The Hillanders have won 11 and lost once, a 63-59 bow to champion Northwestern.

"Spiv" Harris, sports editor of the Mount Vernon News these many years, wrote last week that his "Yellow Jackets" have a chance to set an all-time Mount Vernon losing streak," just before the game with unbeaten Bexley. The Jackets, who had dropped six in a row, rose up and handed Bexley a 62-56 setback, after which the basketball squad dunked balding 46-year-old 135-pound "Spiv" in a shower as dubious recognition for having inspired the conquest.

Geneva Spencer's stingy Wildcats, who have allowed 11 foes an average of 29.9 per game, surrendered only 24 to Ashtabula Edgewood Friday in a 60-24 victory. Ang Vaccaro's Steubenville Big Red is on the move with a 7-1 record, the lone loss to Schenley High of Pittsburgh, Pa., in an overtime. Ang has a 187-89 record for his 13 years with the Big Red—and hopes to hit the 200 mark this campaign.

Convoy Union, which moved into the Class A top ten today, is coached by Paul Bricker, a veteran of 24 years of roundball tutoring. His team is averaging 79 against 43 for 15 straight wins.

Chillicothe, newcomer in the Class AA listings, overcame a 17-11 deficit, outscored Marietta 51-29 in the last half, and won 73-48.

Bill Smith, a Mecca sophomore, leads the potent Trumbull County scorers with 365 points and an average of 28.

Athens High School is a novelty—there isn't a six-footer on the team, but the boys have a 7-3 record.

Olson Broke After Paying Income Taxes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Carl (Bobo) Olson, the former middleweight boxing champ, made a $128,920 tax settlement with the government Monday, but still owes $53,200.

And the Hawaiian-born fighter whose gate receipts topped 1½ million dollars has nothing in the kitty.

His attorney, Howard E. Ellis, told Olson after he had paid the Internal Revenue Service the $128,920 that he had no money left from a trust fund established five years ago by Sid Flaherty, his former manager.

Skids Blamed In 3 Crashes

Street Sign Damaged When Truck Slides

Skids on slippery pavement were blamed for three of the four traffic mishaps recorded in East Liverpool Monday, police said. No one was injured.

A city street marker at E. 3rd and Walnut Sts. was damaged at 2:10 p. m. when a Pittsburgh firm's truck skidded out of control as the driver attempted to halt on the grade at the intersection, officers said. A city-owned truck also was involved, but was not damaged, officers said.

The skidding truck, owned by the George Otto Corp. of Pittsburgh, was driven by Mike Cammarata, 42, of Pittsburgh, officers said. The halted city incinerator department truck was driven by Jack A. Davis, 53, of Box 470, officers said.

Cammarata told police he was driving south on Walnut St. when he applied the brakes to halt. The truck went into a skid, hit the rear of the city truck, and then damaged the street sign, he said.

A collision on Lisbon St. near W. 8th St. at 5:25 p. m. damaged 1952 autos driven by Wayne F. Jackson, 26, of Lisbon St. and Robert Brooks, 22, of 140 N. Surry Rd., police said. Brooks told police he was halted to pick up passengers when his car was hit from the rear by Jackson's.

A crash on Pennsylvania Ave. at Unity St. today at 7:40 a. m. damaged a 1951 car operated by Joseph Schmidbauer, 18, of Shady-side Ave. and a 1952 auto driven by William L. Maxey, 28, of 762 Woodlawn Ave., police said. Schmidbauer said he was following Maxey when Maxey applied his brakes. Schmidbauer said he also put on his brakes and skidded into Maxey.

Two vehicles were involved in a collision on Dresden Ave. at 8 a. m. yesterday. They were a truck owned by the Ohio Fuel & Gas Co., driven by Ernest Gardner, 209 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon, and a car driven by Charles Brooks, 22, of 419 Sugar St., police said. Brooks said the truck skidded to his side of the road.

pleaded guilty and requested probation. He along with Higgins and William Drumm Jr., 29, of Chester R. D. 1 were charged together. Drumm pleaded innocent yesterday.

Also filing guilty pleas and asking for probation were Arnold Adkins, 23, of 717 E. 4th St., operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, and Paul Lester Elson, 36, of Salem, rape of a minor.

Eleven others pleaded not guilty. They included Henry William Bradbury, 48, of Lisbon R. D. 2, shooting with intent to wound; Emerson Braun of Salem, forgery; Lloyd Leasure, 22, of New Cumberland R. D. 2, receiving stolen property.

Glenn Dillard of Lisbon and Harris Shasteen of Hanoverton R. D. 1, non-support; Jeff R. Whan of Darlington, driving while intoxicated; Jack Shields, 23, of Wells-ville R. D. 1, rape of a Lisbon area woman.

Oliver Holbrook, 26, of Falston, Pa., receiving and concealing stolen property; Dale Glen Morrell, 27, of Chester, Barry Weigle of East Palestine and Richard Smith of Homeworth R. D., all charged with second degree manslaughter in traffic deaths.

Principals Association To Hear Steel Official

Health Board Budget Pared

$44,300 Adopted As Service Cut Is Aired

LISBON — A curtailed budget of $44,300 was approved by the Columbiana County Board of Health at a meeting Monday night when action on discharging a plumbing inspector because of lack of funds was delayed until a later meeting.

The board approved the budget allotted by the County Budget Commission, a decrease of some $10,000 from the 1958 budget of $53,120. The health board last year spent only $51,370, returning $1,749 to the health district.

About 21 attended the session at which proposed cutbacks in services were aired.

The board deferred action to a later special meeting on whether or not to release a plumbing inspector.

Charles Gause of Hanoverton R. D., president of the county Clerks and Trustees Association, said the board should attempt to retain all personnel, and the trustees group will work with the board to study the financial problem.

John Kelley of Lisbon said he doubts if one plumbing inspector would provide enough service for the whole county. He said he does not believe the board is co-operating with the inspectors, and he believes the inspectors are doing a good job.

One man suggested the salary of the sanitarian is too high at $7,000 a year. The state Board of Health has advised the county it must have a health commissioner who is a physician, a nurse, a sanitarian and a clerk.

The board is to study the qualifications necessary for a sanitarian to meet the requirements for continuing to receive state and federal aid. The next regular meeting will be Feb. 16.

President, 68, Starts His 7th Year In Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, 68, starts his seventh year in office today reportedly determined to keep the Democratic-controlled Congress on the defensive if it balks at his program.

With half of his second four-year term behind him, the President scheduled no formal observance of this anniversary of his inauguration.

Topping his business calendar is a meeting with Republican congressional leaders for discussion of the administration's legislative proposals and the 77-billion-dollar spending program Eisenhower sent to the Capitol Monday.

The budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 already has been criticized by Democrats — and some Republicans — as inadequate and unrealistic. Aides said the President is ready to hit back at the critics.

In a statement for television and radio use, Eisenhower said failure of the government to live within its means would encourage inflation and diminish the value of every pay envelope.

It was a foregone conclusion Eisenhower would stress the same theme in his annual economic report to Congress today.

In advance of dispatching that report, the President arranged to take part in the awarding of gold medals to missile expert Werner von Braun and four other government employees being honored for distinguished public service.

Another ceremonial activity takes Eisenhower to the airport at midday to welcome Argentina's President Arturo Frondizi, arriving for a state visit.

Monday night Eisenhower and the first lady were hosts at a family dinner party marking the 70th birthday of the President's eldest brother, Edgar, a Tacoma, Wash., attorney.

Health Group Urges $202 Million Budget

A 2-year budget of $202½ million for the state mental health program has been recommended by the Pennsylvania Mental Health, Inc.

The 24-page report, which will be available soon for study, is based on the findings of a statewide survey conducted by the organization.

The Beaver County Mental Health Society is one of seven affiliated groups which conducted local surveys of hospital conditions.

Killed By Collision

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 51-year-old Columbus man was killed Monday in an auto collision here. Police said the victim, Curie R. Wick, in a "left turn only" lane, went through the intersection and his car collided with a car driven by Howard V. Tharp, 41. Tharp was not injured.

Seaman On Destroyer

WEIRTON — Seaman Robert L. Jackson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jackson, 123½ Hudson Ave., is serving aboard the destroyer-escort Peterson, which has returned to Key West, Fla., after patrolling off the north coast of Cuba during the revolution. He is a chief engineman.

Argentina's Strike Seen As Broken Up

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The government's order drafting transport workers into the army appeared today to have broken the backbone of a nationwide strike against President Arturo Frondizi's austerity program.

Buses and trolley cars began rolling in Buenos Aires again as disgruntled drivers, motormen and many other strikers went back to work under the eye of security forces.

Railway and subway workers already were under mobilization orders from a previous strike and these systems were operating normally.

The government, in a predawn order, had threatened to court-martial Buenos Aires transport strikers who did not get back on the job.

The nationwide walkout started Monday under the leadership of Peronista and Communist unions.

The two groups had hoped to force the government to back down on its austerity program by granting another round of wage increases. The program is designed to check inflation and rebuild Argentina's economy from the chaos created by Peron to buy workers' support.

One government official pointed out the strike already had failed in one objective: to force President Arturo Frondizi to cancel a two-week state visit to the United States.

Frondizi arrived in Charleston, S.C., Monday and was to fly on to Washington today for economic talks with President Eisenhower and other U.S. officials.

Frondizi said in Charleston he was not concerned about the strike situation.

Some 7,000 workers seized the government-owned Buenos Aires meat packing plant Saturday to protest plans to sell the money-losing business to private operators. Police and troops used tanks and tear gas to rout them.

Traffic

liam Koloszi of Salem ruled the death accidental.

The fatality was the first on county roads this year, compared to one this last year. An 89-year-old Salem woman pedestrian was the first county fatality in 1958.

The victim was born in Transylvania Aug. 2, 1886 and came to the United States in 1919. His wife, Mrs. Katherine Schenker, died in 1929.

Survivors include a step-son, a brother and two sisters.

Services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday at the Stark Memorial at Salem.

Lisbon Area Woman

Unhurt In Road Mishap

Isabelle A. Vincent, 36, of Lisbon R. D. 3 escaped injury when her car skidded off Route 30 about 4 miles south of West Point Monday afternoon at 2:35, the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Officers said the woman was driving south and attempted to slow when the auto skidded on the slippery pavement.

New Delay Slated For Tavern Case

Although a venire of 24 prospective jurors reported this morning in Municipal Court for trial of the first of two men accused of gambling in connection with alleged booking of horse race bets in the Village Green tavern, the non-appearance of a state witness threatened another delay in the case.

The jurors were to hear the case of Alfred Nitsche, 820 Ohio Ave., Midland, accused of accepting a $10 bet from a State Liquor Control agent. However, the agent—one of the chief witnesses—was notified Solicitor Joseph Cooper by telephone from Columbus Monday that he would not appear today.

To avoid further inconvenience to the panel, Judge George L. Brokaw indicated he would empanel a jury, then excuse the members until the case is called for trial. Meanwhile, he said, the prosecution and the defense may argue a defense motion asking return of evidence it claims was seized illegally. The attorneys and the judge still were in conference close to noon.

Man Killed By Car

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — The city's first traffic fatality since 1956 was recorded Monday night. A retired rubber worker, Henry Ford, 71, was struck and killed by an automobile here. The driver said Ford stepped from between two parked cars and started to cross the street.

Ola Reisenberger

Mrs. Ola Long Reisenberger, a former Wellsville resident, died Sunday night at the Mercy Hospital in Canton, where she had been a patient several days. She was 83.

Mrs. Reisenberger was born in Greene County, Pa., but had resided most of her life in Wellsville. A tailor, she worked in the former D. S. Steiner Tailor Shop on the Public Square. She moved to Canton 20 years ago where she resided with a son, Edward Reisenberger, of Spring Valley Dr.

A niece, Mrs. Goldie Murdock Swaney of Main St., Wellsville, is the only other survivor.

Services will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. at the Reed Funeral Home on Tuscarawas St., Canton. Burial will be at Spring Hill Cemetery at Wellsville. The body will arrive about 3 p. m.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

Mrs. Edna Whitney

Mrs. Edna Whitney of Parkersburg, formerly of Wellsville, died Monday at 10 a. m. at Parkersburg City Hospital after an illness of two weeks.

She was the daughter of the late Martin L. and Mary Worstell.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Jean Bryan and Mrs. Elsie Bair, both of Parkersburg; a son, Robert Whitney of Bellaire; a sister, Mrs. Lucy Fox of Salineville, and four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Services will be held Thursday at 10:30 a. m. at the Leavitt Funeral Home in Parkersburg. Burial will be in Spring Hill Cemetery in Wellsville Thursday afternoon.

U.S. Warned About Russia

Gas, Germ Warfare Veiled In Secrecy And Mystery

America's military leaders have warned repeatedly that the Soviet Union might resort to germ warfare. Is the United States prepared to defend herself? (First in a series of three articles.)

By ROGER GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Could a few ounces of lethal germ crystals wipe out the population of New York City — even annihilate all life on the North American Continent?

Could plague germs spread by an enemy touch off a nationwide epidemic?

Could enemy planes or saboteurs destroy this country's crops and livestock, reducing the land to starvation?

The truth about gas and germ warfare is shrouded in secrecy and mystery.

Last May the North Atlantic Treaty Organization warned in an official report: "The Russians are capable of waging biological (germ) and chemical warfare on a large scale."

But the United States' policy on the use of these fearful weapons is top secret, says the Pentagon.

One man who presumably should have the answers is Maj. Gen. Marshall Stubbs, chief of the Army Chemical Corps.

Stubbs said frankly he would like to clear up many points of confusion but had been ordered to observe strict silence.

In such an atmosphere of secrecy, it is little wonder that the most lurid distortions and conflicting statements about germ warfare go virtually unchallenged.

Item — Dr. Brock Chisholm, director-general of the United Nations World Health Organization, says scientists have discovered a substance so deadly that seven ounces would be enough to kill all the people in the world.

Item — Army pamphlet No. 8-12 entitled "What You Should Know About Biological Warfare": "No kind of biological warfare could kill or sicken every person in a large area or city. Talk of one ounce — of toxic material — killing millions is silly."

Item — The British Medical Journal says two or three drops of nerve gas on the skin will kill within 30 minutes; one drop in the eye or a tiny amount inhaled as vapor kills in a few minutes.

Item — Chemical Warfare Service handbook, issued by the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood

Arsenal, Md.: "A single droplet of nerve gas in a person's eye could kill him."

What then, are you supposed to believe in all this welter of conflicting statements?

Tight official silence has created a virtual blackout on authoritative information. Yet the Pentagon, in response to written questions submitted by a reporter, allowed the following sentence to remain among heavily censored answers:

"The Chemical Corps is anxious to put the true facts before the public so that the nature of chemical and biological warfare can be viewed in its proper perspective."

New York Firm Takes Option On Union Terminal

CLEVELAND (AP)—A corporation headed by an Atlanta, Ga., man has taken an option to buy or lease the giant Cleveland Union Terminal property within six months.

Purchase of the property would come to "more than 15 and less than 20 million dollars," said Robert M. Holder of Atlanta, 51-year-old real estate developer and head of Station Development Enterprises, Inc. of New York City.

W. T. Alexander Jr., general manager for New York Central Railroad, which owns 93 per cent of Cleveland Union Terminal Co. stock, said he had no doubts Holder would exercise his option. The option also includes smaller NYC station properties in Buffalo, Syracuse and Rochester.

In an entirely separate transaction which, by coincidence, was announced at about the same time as the deal for the Union Terminal, the Terminal Tower Building, which rises 708 feet above Public Square, was sold.

A syndicate headed by Roger L. Stevens of Detroit got about 13 million dollars for the tower, which they bought three years ago for a reported $11,450,000.

Purchasing the Terminal Tower were Heckler - Weingrow Enterprises of New York City, the major principal in the deal, and L. G. Candler Associates, Ltd. of Toronto, Canada.

Unaffected by either transaction are other buildings in the terminal group—the Higbee Co., Hotel Sheraton-Cleveland and the Guildhall, Republic and Midland Office Buildings.

Kid Paret Beats Zalazar For 5th Straight U.S. Win

NEW YORK (AP)—New York's sports-happy, Latin-American set had another fighter to cheer about today in fast-punching Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba.

The always busy 21-year-old racked up his fifth straight victory in the United States by whipping hand-injured Victor Zalazar in a 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Benny throws leather quick and often, is fast as foot and apparently can take a punch well.

A pro 3½ years, Paret's record is 27-2-1.

Benny's victory over Zalazar was his second in a row over the 6-foot, 23-year-old Argentine. A month ago he won a split decision at St. Nick's in ending Zalazar's 15-0 record, all knockouts.

Monday night the kid was awarded a unanimous decision after a rousing scrap.

Zalazar, however, was handicapped by a swollen, and possibly broken right hand, from the second round on after he hit Paret on the top of the head.

Austria has 132 schools where special care is provided for handicapped children.

Likely To Develop Slowly, However

Investment Future Bright Under 'Common Market'

By JEROME OELBAUM
NEW YORK, (NANA) — The European Common Market, now in its embryo stage, promises to touch off a huge rise in U.S. companies' investments in Europe—but the upturn is likely to develop slowly.

There are several companies, it is true, that have recently announced new investments in Europe and that these have been tied to the Common Market.

In many cases, however, the link between the two appears to have weighed more heavily in the calculations of their public relations staffs than their management.

The Common Market is good news material but it will be some time before it is translated into investment decisions.

Certainly, the fact that France, Germany, Italy, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg have begun their 12 to 15-year program of economic integration is contributing to the modification of investment plans that were drawn up some time ago.

AND A VERY CLEAR indication that large capital expenditures will be made in Europe can be found in the conviction of corporate executives that they will have to have production facilities there in order to hold their European markets and participate in the six nations' future growth.

The Common Market has not progressed far enough to put any great pressure on U.S. producers and may not for several years. Also, there are so many impediments to be taken into account that only general lines of policy can be laid out now.

A key consideration is the extent of tariff discrimination U.S. products will have to face in the Common Market and in which of the six member countries this will become a problem.

In the wholesale adjustments of member countries' tariffs to a single list of duties for the Common Market as a unit—a process that will not begin in any case until 1962—tariffs will be raised in some nations, lowered in others.

Generally, tariffs now are lowest in the Benelux Customs Union (Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg) and highest in France.

THE CURRENT tariff on spinning machines comes to 6 per cent in Benelux, for example. In France, it ranges from 15 to 18 per cent. The common "external" tariff—the arithmetic average of the duties of all six nations—would be in the neighborhood of 10 to 11 per cent, according to estimates made in Holland.

Business machines take a 10 per cent duty in Benelux, 20 to 22 per cent in France. The common tariff is calculated at 17 per cent.

Thus, in both instances, Benelux tariffs would have to be raised and those of France lowered in the adaptation of their national duties to the six-country average. Similar see-saw changes will have to be made in Germany and Italy.

The U.S. has asked the Common Market's executive commission to supply a list of its estimated external tariffs by the middle of next year as a basis for the negotiations scheduled to begin in mid-1960 among the 37 members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The tariff negotiations may last six or seven months. Therefore, it will not be until about mid-1961 that companies exporting goods into the Common Market will have a solid list of duties on which to base sales and investment decisions.

ANOTHER highly important matter that has to be cleared up is the fate of the British proposal to link the Common Market with the rest of Western Europe.

The original plan called for West European countries to lower tariffs parallel with the six. The free trade area countries, however, would have been free to maintain their individual tariffs for trade outside the combined area.

The fate of this plan is now highly uncertain because of conflicts between French and British positions. Negotiations are likely to continue but it is now clear that time and hard bargaining will be required to work out an arrangement between the two groups of countries.

Until this is decided one way or another, U.S. companies will not have at hand one vital part of this new European jig saw trade puzzle—the status of Britain.

Many American corporations have affiliates in Britain that are used to supply Europe as well as the Commonwealth.

If Britain becomes subject to the same tariff discrimination as the U.S.—if, in other words, the free trade area plan goes by the board—the English subsidiaries are bound to lose value as a production center for Europe and U.S. firms will be under pressure to acquire manufacturing facilities directly within the Common Market.

Designed For All Boys

County's Scouts Will Join New 'Explorer' Program

A new Explorer program, designed to attract high school age boys whether or not they ever have been members of the Boy Scouts, has been launched by the Columbiana Boy Scout Council.

The program is being directed by Frank Rossi of East Liverpool, chairman of the district organization and extension committee; Aubrey Hayes of Salem, council Explorer committee chairman, and Robert Beck of Lisbon, chief executive of the council.

New sponsors are being sought and any organization such as a church, synagogue, school, civic or industrial group may sponsor a post. Individuals are needed to serve in various leader capacities.

The new program retains many features of the present program, directing 485,000 members, and includes many new features.

The program includes a personal fitness emphasis, social experiences. One feature of the new program enables a post to adopt a specialty if it desires, in addition to its regular program.

These specialties can include science, dramatics, conservation, ham radio, photography, seamanship, aeronautics, automobilism, business, emergency service, animal care, agriculture, horsemanship and publishing.

The new program was adopted nationally after a survey was made to learn the dominant needs of teen-age boys. Previously, boys entered an Explorer post after "graduating" from Boy Scouts.

The present plan has received more attention in its developmental stage than any other program released by the Boy Scouts.

One of the major features of the Explorer program is that the adult leaders work in an advisory capacity only to show the boys how to do things. Most of the decisions are made by the boys themselves.

Explorers elect their own officers and create their own activities that they operate by a committee.

Anyone interested in participating in the program may contact Rossi at 604 Walnut St. or the Boy Scout office at Lisbon.

Beaver Drops 1959's Budget

Tentative Figure Sets $222,611 Slash

Beaver County's 1959 budget amounts to $2,112,370 and is based on 6½ mills, with the institutional district budget amounting to $1,033,266—based on 2½ mills—for a total 9-mill collection.

The new budgets went on display Monday in the office of Controller Richard Fulton at Beaver.

The new millage rate is a decrease over last year's and is provided by the county's new tax assessment program. With minor changes, the budget is expected to be adopted Feb. 16 so that tax notice preparations may get underway as soon as possible.

The new budget is $222,611 less than the 1958 budget due principally to the fact that this year most of the public works department wages will be paid from liquid fuels tax money, and there is a reduction in various capital outlays, including a much smaller sum this year for airport improvements which were completed in 1958.

A series of 1958 bonds also was paid off.

Main breakdown of the budget includes: Administration $529,750; judicial, $393,975; correctional institutions, $369,725; highways, $44,400; and charities $5,520.

You may have discovered that except for some pastry and hot-roll mixes many of the packaged mixes for home baking cost almost the same as a similar product made from scratch in your own kitchen.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

'Shaming' A Child Hinders Learning

"You don't know that? Why, a kindergarten child knows that!" So a father spoke to his 8-year-old son while helping (no, while hindering) him with his lessons. This evening, hundreds of fathers or mothers will be expressing surprise that this child or that doesn't know something the parents suppose he ought to know, and the implication is always: "You should be ashamed not to know it."

Maybe the 10-year-old child doing number work in long division doesn't know how many are 6 times 7, or that 3 from 11 leaves 8, or that 94 is larger than 79. To be sure, this child cannot make progress in long division until he senses the relative magnitude of two numbers, knows his basic multiplication and subtraction facts.

DISCOVERING THE child's lack, parents may feel discouraged. How much more discouraged will the child feel if his parent shames him for what he doesn't know!

When parents express surprise and cause shame in such instances, we do just what our children often do when one tries to prove that a brother or sister is not as smart as he is. It's a bullying trick, a way one child has of making himself seem superior by causing the other to appear inferior.

DOES NOT the same subtle, ugly urge prompt you and me to express surprise and imply shame when a child or other person doesn't know something or can't do something we consider easy or elementary? I guess we have all been guilty, when off guard, of letting our native impulses go free.

Among cultivated adults we may be more vigilant and niceties of social grace may curb us in this type of bullying. But with our children, and other loved ones, we may not be restrained by self-discipline.

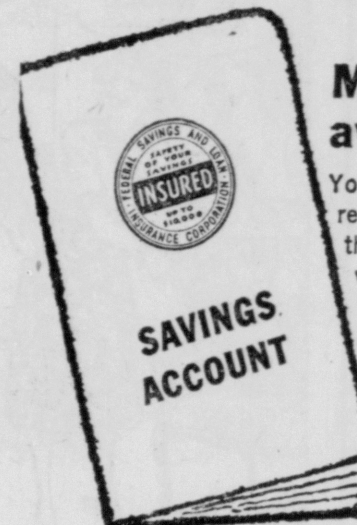

HERE'S A BIT of self-management we parents should work hard at in relation to our children, especially when we want to help them with their lessons.

Let us strive never to act shocked or surprised, nor even to feel so, when the child doesn't have skills or knowledge at his lessons a much younger child usually has. Instead, let us note carefully what specific knowledge or skill he needs to acquire in order to learn and then find the best possible way of helping him achieve it.

My bulletins, "Parents Can Help Child Succeed At School" and "Celebrate Your Child's Successes," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Just send 3 empty Ohio Farm Sausage bags to Sugardale! You will receive $1.00 in return. Offer expires March 31, 1959. Full details on the back of the bag.

Taste-tantalizing and hearty Sugardale Ohio Farm Brand pure pork sausage is its promise! Made with fresh, tender loins, lean hams, shoulders...all those finer flavored choicest cuts of the hog...and spice seasoned to deliciously delightful tanginess. Buy it hot or mild to your taste. But don't stop there! Go with casseroles, pancakes, waffles, for savory casseroles; for breakfast, lunch or dinner! You can bank on your family's liking it. And you can "bank-a-buck"...the dollar you save during this special introductory offer!

Uncle Sam's Inspection is your protection... look for the No. 92 on the government seal of approval.
